

THE ANDOVER NEWS

ONE DOLLAR A YEAR.

HAMILTON C. NORRIS, EDITOR

ANDOVER, N. Y., September 25, 1895.

Cholera and another bond issue in sight. Where is the hoodoo, anyway?

What does Lily Langtry want with a divorce, after doing without all these years.

We trust that Lord Dunsraven will not consider the September cold snap personal.

The average small boy can hardly be expected to enthuse over that law-mower attachment for bicycles.

Congressman Crisp might find it advantageous to reduce the ratio between his Georgia press talks and his New York press talks.

Under what article of the Constitution does a syndicate of bankers, mostly foreigners, dictate the financial policy of the United States?

The overhead trolley wires have been driven out of Washington, but the underground political wires were never more plentiful at the National Capital.

A funeral is never a pleasing affair and when two widows of the deceased are on hand, as was the case in Brooklyn recently, there is certain to be trouble.

Notwithstanding the periodical working of the old saw about one blood and one language, it is plain that Americans and Englishmen do not love each other.

A delver in antiquarian lore has discovered that "The Order of Fools" was established at Cleves in 1380. It is said several members of the order are now living.

The two sides of a man's face are never alike, which may account for the contradictory descriptions sometimes read, of our prominent citizens. The writers didn't look at the same side.

The veterans of Chickamauga enjoyed last week's meeting much more than they did that of 1864. There's lots more fun in dedicating the battlefield for a national park than there is in fighting a battle.

ABOUT BOLTING.

L. G. Raymond, editor of the Angelic Republican, gets off a good many queer things in his paper. Sometimes he makes people mad, and occasionally says things which perhaps would better have been left unsaid. But, on the other hand, he sometimes hits the nail on the head. The following from his latest issue contains so much that comes under the head of good, sound sense that we believe it should have a wide reading, and we copy it in order to do what we can to further that object:

BIRDSALL, N. Y., Sept. 17, 1895.

Dear Sir:—Is it inconsistent with political honor for an elector to bolt a nominee of his party and to vote for a nominee of another party?

VETERAN REPUBLICAN.

REMARKS. This question is one that many men of old parties have from time to time asked themselves, and many political bolts or stampedes that have taken place from time to time in local, State and National politics, seems to answer the above question in the negative.

In fact a political bolt indicates a healthy condition of a party. That is to say, as it is a fact that corruption and improper practices fasten upon political parties, it is a healthy sign when the party rebukes by a bolt—the only practical redress against a party machine.

It is no credit to a man to boast, he never bolted a ticket of his party. Multitudes of the best men of all old parties have at times bolted.

As to the Republican party: it was formed by bolters from the Whigs and Free-Soil Democrats.

Of course, if the parties were absolutely pure and in control of absolutely pure men, then there would not be occasion for bolting, and to bolt nominations would be improper. Unfortunately, however, often unscrupulous and corrupt men get control of party machinery and run it for selfish and personal ends, and then honorable party men show their manhood by bolting.

An elector should be governed by circumstances. There are occasions when bolting is proper, and also occasions when improper. For instance—

Every right-minded party man should as a rule vote for the Presidential electors of his party; also, the party State ticket; for nominees for Congress, and for State Senators and Assemblymen. As these officials are identified with the affairs of National and State Government.

But there is no good reason why electors should be hide-bound to vote for any local nominees or other than those specified, just because they have manipulated into nomination.

Of these latter, such as you may for personal reasons want to vote for, do so; and such of these latter as you for any reason may not care to vote for, don't. Stand by your friends, in politics as in other things—in all but legislative and governmental officials, in which cases fidelity to party should be above any personal feelings.

There are other things we would like to say in this line, but suppress the feelings. But how much longer will the Republicans of Allegany county submit to damnable abominations?

There are times when it is manly to submit, and there are times when it is manly to kick—and kick hard.

The Republican party in this county has been standing straits up to the bustling point.

So, within the limits specified, when you get inside the voting box stall—alone with your God, your blanket ballot and a lead pencil—fix your ticket to suit yourself.

Irving W. Laremore, physical director of Y. M. C. A., Des Moines, Iowa, says he can conscientiously recommend Chamberlain's Pain Balm to athletes, gymnasts, bicyclists, foot ball players and the profession in general for bruises, sprains and dislocations; also for soreness and stiffness of the muscles. When applied before the parts become swollen it will effect a cure in one-half the time usually required. For sale by L. A. Burrows.

A. M. Bailey, a well-known citizen of Eugene, Oregon, says his wife has for years been troubled with chronic diarrhoea and used many remedies with little relief until she tried Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, which has cured her sound and well. Give it a trial and you will be surprised at the prompt relief it affords. 25 and 50 cent bottles for sale by L. A. Burrows.
