EATH OF

VOL. XX., NO. /II

The Going Out of the Life of One of Andover's Most Popular and Esteemed Citizens. Andover was stunned Friday morning at the news of the death of Augustus M. Burrows, which occurred, at his home on Center street. He had, not been in his usual health for some time previous. He was a sufferer from arterial degeneration, as has been learned since his death, causing) mental depression-and melancholy at 1 times. No one realized to what extent the discase had fastened upon him, antil indeed it had gained entire control over his mental faculties.

Thursday evening, in company with) his wife, Mr. Burrows attended a church supper in the village, after) which, as was his usual custom, he was at the prayer service at the Methodist church. He was at the store and bank early Friday morning directing the affairs of his extensive business as usual. At about 9:30 he went; to his home, and directly to his roum, on the second floor. A few minutes; siter ne entered his room miss but the work of the Business Men's Asso- church, of which Mr. Burrows has Mrs. L. H.
