Then I take a deep breath, close my eyes and mouth and concentrate my demption of the soul is held to be the thoughts on the main point of the subject I wish to write upon, and invariably A GLORIOUS INSPIRATION comes to me.

Then, taking my pen, I write an article which, had I not known On Sunday, September 2nd the New calls forth comments upon the aging the art of breathing, I could never have composed.

> Then, again, I want to write a beautiful hymn, so, retiring to rest, Appenattox is nine years shead of us, I again TAKE A DEEP BREATH and think only of beautiful things. Then, in a calm, sweet sleep, beautiful visions come to me, and in the morning my mind is filled with glorious thoughts, which are afterward crystallized into a hymn.

Everybody now realizes the extraordinary benefit to health which results from DEEP BREATHING, though few know, as it was known to ancient eastern philosophers, what an IMPORTANT PART. it plays in the building up of a great and noble brain.
