two fatal words "uncertainty," "delay" are interwover in all our methods of doing legal business. The practical result of our antiquated systems in the complicated conditions of our social and business life would disgrace the early part of the nineteenth century, when practically all business was performed in a cumbersome way. But to a modern business man, accustomed to modern AND EFFICIENT methods of dispatching business, the delays and uncertainties of our administration of the law have become INTOLERABLE, they at the same time affording a sure refuge to the department of our school a thoro pre | An English jurist recently laid down | unscrupulous. In view of the just reputation of our people for quickparatory school for those desiring to the law of the road in an automobile ness and efficiency, this grotesque condition of the administration of justice would be laughable IF IT WERE NOT SO SERIOUS.

The absurdities of the administration of our criminal law have allowed the hysteria which exists in a more or less positive form in every community to find outward expression IN THE CRIME OF LYNCHING. The delays of the civil law, tending to deprive the economically weak of justice, have been a potent factor in creating that young man or woman to enter college "looking and listening" for trains.
