Santa Claus Land is very unlike ours, It has no pretty gardens in summer nor any green fields or forests. On the contrary, it is always bleak and barren. The winters are very long and night being nearly six months long. The people dwell in buts built of ice and snow during the winter and . tents made of the dried skins of seals and reindeer during the summer. The reindeer supplies them with their only means of "rapid transit" during the long arctic night when the sledge dogs grow sullen and drowsy. It travels in ithe darkness as well as in daylight and gives rich milk, which may be slaughtered the reindeer's most is eaten, and his hide is made into clothing for the Eskimos or stretched over poles and dried for use in making tents. BE PETERS was a Yankee man an' sharper than a pin. He lived way out in Longsome Lane, all by himself, an' he Would never visit other folks or ask his neighbors in An' never hed Thankedyin' or a Christmas Jubilee.

He was the sharpest feller in a trade you ever knew, He was the closest buyer ever seen around the town, An' if he lent a dollar he was sure to get back two An' always took advantage of the feller who was down. The old folks used to talk of him beside the fire at night An' dwell upon his dealin's in a most peculiar way; An' this is but a sample of the things they used to say:

"Old Abe Peters of Lonesome Lane, Old Abe Peters in town again. Poor as a buzzard an' mean as a crow, With lots of money, but none to show-Old-Abe-Peters!"

There come a mighty blizzard, an' it buried Lonesome Lane. Abe Peters he was covered under seven foot of snow; He tried to leave his shanty, but he found it all in vain; Each day he grew more frightened, with his fodder runnin' low.

They argued o'er the matter till the week was on the wane, Till finally they ventured, half a score of souls or so. An' this is what they shouted as they dug out Lonesome Lane:

> "Old Abe Peters, unbuckle your gold;" Old Abe Peters, we're dry an' cold; Cider or coffee or crackers an' beer Or money to buy us some Christmas cheer-Old-Abe-Peters!"

Abe Peters saw 'em comin' from his garret window pane; He saw 'em diggin' flercely through the mighty drifts of snow. His heart warmed for a moment; then it turned to ice again. He scowled with selfish malice, on the workers down below. And did he pass 'em coffee? Did he offer-Christmas cheer An' thank 'em for their labor, which, alas, was all in vain? have their games, quite different from He warned 'em from his dooryard in a manner most severe An' sued 'em all for trespass when he got around again.

> "Abe Peters has vanished from Lonesome Lane; Abe Peters will never come back again, Just where he is quartered we do not know, But it's safe to reckon he's found no snow-Old-Abe-Peters!"
