The Greeks intrusted their gold and silver to the priests wh primitive banking

Modern banking is the result of a slow development and today the bank offers every possible facility and the methods are systematic and simple

A man deposits his money in the bank; he can then go out among his fellows, pay his debts, make purchases, etc., by writing a check for his obligations. He checks against his money in the bank

The checking system is most convenient, it is adjusted to the needs of every one; for large business, for small business.
