> Fish and Game Law Amendments. One of the busiest committees in the assembly is that on fish and game. It has for consideration a large number of amendments to the present law, including the establishment of a license, fee for resident and non-resident hun ters; legalizing fishing on Sunday throughout the state: adding five days to the trout season; changing the open season for wild deer: requiring a cense for the taking of minnows for bait with nets in waters: penalizing the taking or injuring a rowboat or scow without consent of owner: eliminating permission to dealers to possess in the close season game of prohibited kinds taken without the state: permitting the sale in the New York state close season of certain game virds, and thoroughly reorganizing.

The Method May Be Changed. There is considerable sentiment of late, only a small percentage of the voters voting either way.
