Election Law Changes Mearings have been given on Relies of the proposed election law amend ments, and others are yet to come. One change which is under serious discussion provides that the name of any candidate for any office may ap-. Dear upon a ballot but once. Assemblyman Phillips of Allegany has a bill in which a hearing has been had which proposes this change. Under his bill the party column would be retained, and the method of voting would be precisely the same as with the present New York ballot. Should his bill become a law it would not be possible for a candidate nominated by any party and indersed by an independent organization, as was the case with Mr. Hearst with the Democratic state tickat last year, to appear in separate columns. Provision is made that if , candidate is thus indersed or nominated by more than one organization his name shall appear in whatever party celumn he may prefer. For instance, if Democrats and Independent leaguers were both to nominate Mr. Hearst again, Mr. Hearst'would be compelled to file a certificate with the secretary of state stating under which emblem the other party desiring to vote for This would be compelled to do so un--ser that emblem. Provision is made

As to the Judielary. Just how such a bill would work in ' all localities is under discussion. doubtedly it would have a tendency to prevent neminations of complete tickols by independent organizations.
