The Year A little bit of sunshine,

A little bit of snow, A little heap of autumn leaves, Where roses used to grow, A little bit of darkness, And a little bit of day, A smile and then a sigh

For little pleasures passed away. A little bit of folly ---And a little bit of sense, A little bit of saving

And a little wild expense. A little bit of sorrow, And a little bit of cheer, A little bit of waiting

----* TIME TRAVELS

And we've rounded out the year.

In this last issue of the News in 1907, it is well to think of time. Time has been in the thoughts of men 17. Sea Disaster: Explosion on the-Japa---a study and a puzzle—for more than fifty centuries,

To a Napoleon, as the crown is placed upon his head, a second may be like a year of exultant retrospect and proud looking ahead. We talk a great deal about the wonders c man's achievements. It is a great thing to enable an acre of land to produce four times as much as it used to. But it is an infinitely greater thing to increase the productiveness of an hour in a man's life. These few 10. Sporting: Trampfast won the world's hours of life are all that we have. We i cannot understand time nor define it. yet it is our only possession.

Kings and rich men in fairy stories and in real history offer fabulous sums to the magician that will add to their lives. As a matter of fact, the chief result of all our struggling and scientific progress has been to double and treble and to multiply by a hundred the lives of all human beings.

What value has time except that it prompts us to do and see things ? The greatest achievements of the hu B. Maurice Loewy, director of the Pariman brain has been that it has adder to the possibilities contained in one human life. If a person wishes to transact business, dealing verbally with individuals, that wonderful ir vention, the telephone, has added more than an hundred years to the con ventional three-score years and ten.
