the seeming wisdom of a Solomon, of Hornell and looked as wise as a Solon. What did you know about it? Easy enough "the other Fellow" should run their business. It's like this: A self-con structed committee of "47" can be found in every village. "Cracker barrel statesman." They run everything from the Curfew bell to the tarriff bill. All questions are settled. Absolutely settled by this body, or at least, they think so. And often after a hard morning's work either holdsunny side of a buildiing, "argufying" they trudge home to their meals with the evident satisfaction of having saved the village, the town, the country, yes, and the world. But the question arises, "What do they know about it?" After all its harmless. For a time it riles the surface of individuals $\frac{1}{1}$ feelings, but then it passes away. What an influence that committee of "47" might have for the prosperity and progress of a village. Just suppose that for a month every man, and every woman too, talked the village up, ecomed every politician, praised the school, said a kind word about the newspaper, patted the preachers on the back, looked with gratitude to the churches and spoke kindly of the fraternities, express Ham Sandwiches ed confidence in the merchants and purchased everything at home, and every man_and woman gave his neighbor a "square deal," what do you think would happen? Let us forecast. Everybody would be so happy. Such an era of sociability would prevail that (?) Main Street would be
