

ARE AFTER THE BOTTLE DEALERS

DISTRICT ATTORNEY RICE DO THE SOGG WORK IN ANDOVER. TWO HELD FOR GRAND JURY.

Dist. Atty. Joseph F. Rice of Andover yesterday afternoon issued warrants for the arrest of two men, Alvin Mitchell and Anson Brundage, who are held to await the sitting of the Grand Jury in March. Mitchell had obtained a bail of $1000 and is going to prison. Mitchell had indications, hanging over his head for former offenses and will undoubtedly receive his sentence on Monday, which we predict will be a long one.

Of late the large number of drunks seen on our streets indicated to Andover people that there was something afoot some where; that was not just lawful to say the least. Alvin Brundage has been doing good work and obtained some evidence that was convincing.

The investigation was still in progress late in the afternoon Thursday, and witnesses were being sworn in an effort to prove other parties guilty of the illegal sale of liquor, that suspicion says are guilty.

Justice of the Peace, Thomas R. Bassett heard the evidence and held the prisoners for the Grand Jury. Mitchell virtually admitted his guilt.

WOMAN SUFFRAGE IN ALBANY

Called by Governor Hughes in the interest of the Woman Suffrage Bill.

Albany, Jan. 25.—Mrs. Clarence Mackay of New York, who spent the day here as the advance agent for a couple of suffrage gatherings to be held in Albany later, made formal calls today upon Governor Hughes, Senator Westworth, Jesse B. Phillips, Senator Davis and Senator Hill. Mr. Hill has a formal introduction a woman suffrage bill. Mr. Phillips is chairman of the committee in the senate that will consider the bill. Mr. Phillips is chairman of the corresponding committee in the Assembly.

Mrs. Mackay said her only purpose in calling on Governor Hughes was to inform him of the tremendous growth of the woman suffrage movement as a member of the legislative committee of the state Woman Suffrage Association.

She has engaged Harmonus Bickel of Albany's biggest theater, for a suffrage mass meeting on the evening of February 16th. The meeting will be held under the auspices of the association and the Reverend Anna W. Shaw, president of the national association, and others will speak.

Mrs. Mackay has arranged with Mrs. Nelson H. Henry one of the leaders of the anti-suffragist movement, to invite the anti-suffragists to attend the mass meeting.

MET DEATH LIKE A STOIC.

Physician Dying of Blood Poisoning Records his Symptoms to the Last.

Dr. Nicholas Collore, a highly successful blood specialist, living in Brooklyn, died Jan. 27th of blood poisoning after he had known for three days that he was doomed to death and had spent his time studying his own condition and discussing theories and methods of combating the disease with Dr. Russell Fowler a brother blood specialist.

Every change in temperature, every twinge of pain and every unusual action of the heart was carefully noted by the dying man.

Dr. Collore contracted the disease while operating on a woman two weeks ago. He became infected through a pin scratch on his right thumb, which he neglected until the poison had spread so far that its progress could not be arrested.

WHO CAUSED WM. UPDYKE'S DEATH!

Coroner Ayars and District Attorney, Rice Re-Open Coroner's Investigation Thursday ---Evidence Points Strongly to Murder--- Body Must Have Been Placed Where Found to Cover Crime.

District Attorney Joseph F. Rice and Coroner E. W. Ayars re-opened the investigation of the cause of death of William Updyke at City Hall, Thursday afternoon. All the evidence so far taken points directly to the suspicion that Updyke met death by foul means, and his body placed in the creek in an attempt to cover the crime, making it appear that Updyke had walked into a death trap while intoxicated.

The complete analysis of the contents of the stomach has not yet been given by the Buffalo City Chemist, who is making the examination, but it has been determined that there was no wood alcohol present.

The post mortem examination of the body revealed the fact that the body had been roughly handled AFTER DEATH and not before. The muscles of the right arm, above the elbow, were torn and lacerated, completely to the bone, and the skin covering the wound was not even discolored. The chest had been broken in, as though some one had stamped the heel of a heavy boot into it, breaking the ribs in front and loosening them from the spine in back. Had the injuries been inflicted previous to death, not more than a second, the heart would have filled with blood and they would have been found full of congealed blood. Not a single clot of blood could be found in the body, and in no place was the skin discolored, proving without the shadow of a doubt that the injuries were inflicted after death. What other reason than to cover their crime would any person have in inflicting such inhuman treatment to a dead body.

The evidence taken in the case also revealed the fact that the feet and hands were covered with running water when found. The autopsy found the feet and hands frozen and no other part of the body showed frost. Nothing would freeze in running water.

The tracks in the snow from the bank on the opposite side of the bridge to where the body laid were made by a person wearing a number 9 or 10 leather boot, while Updyke wore a rubber boot. Only one set of tracks lead to the body from the bank, but upon examination it was found that in the same tracks were found imprints showing that the same boots walked both ways in them.

Other evidence is to the effect that Updyke's hat was nowhere to be found. He surely did not go there alone without a hat, and his hat not later come to light. On an average of 100 people pass over the bridge beside which the body was found daily. The first little girl crossing the bridge Wednesday morning after day light, discovered the body. The body lay in a position in full view of the highway for two or three rods before reaching the bridge. Children were also known to have played on and around the bridge Tuesday and had not seen the body. Andover people are very much worked up over the tragedy, and everything possible will be done to convict the person or persons who caused the death of William Updyke.

BRANDED BABY.

Brother Placed a Red-hot Lincoln Penny on Baby Brother's Face.

For branding his baby brother, Samuel, with a white-hot Lincoln penny, Jacob Goldberg, 11 years old of New York has been committed to the Jewish protector. Jacob did not seem to think he had done anything serious. "I did not think it would hurt the baby," he told the court.

A burn the exact size of a penny disfigured the baby's left cheek. Jacob chose a moment when his brother lay asleep and his mother had gone to market. Heating the penny over a charcoal bucket fire he handled it with a pair of tweezers, and slapped it on baby's face. He told the court he had been imbued with patriotic admiration for Lincoln and thought it would be proper to leave an imprint of Lincoln's face on his brother's face.

STILL LOVES ANDOVER

D. D. Van Allen of Boston, Hungers for News from his Old Home Town.

In a letter from D. D. Van Allen, of Boston, subscribing for the News, he says: "My son is Rector in the Church of the Advent, Boston, and has been for seven years. I have two sisters here. All will revel in the Andover News. One of the girls, Miss Sarah A. Van Allen was for many years a teacher in Andover. I am hungry for news of Andover, not my native village, but almost.

My father moved to Andover, from Greenwood when I was a very small lad, and I can remember very little back of Andover. I can remember thinking Andover was a very large town then, almost a city. I have not lived in Andover, in over more than 40 years, but I love it still, and the longer I live the more my thoughts go back to the dear old town. In imagination, I walk the familiar streets and climb the hills I love so well. There are a few left, thank God, whom I've known and respected all these years. But how many are gone!

We take many papers, but I think the News will be read by me first of all.

A True Verdict.

"Anyhow Whiskey did it." Your verdict is true to a dot, and yet there are many who read it. Who will read it and heed it not.

"Anyhow Whiskey did it." Your verdict is true to a dot. Many may tremble who read it, But they'll tremble and heed it not.

Married.

Lee of East State Street, Wellsville, and Miss Beulah J. Lee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry R. Lee of Riverside. Only the immediate friends of the bride and groom were present. Mr. and Mrs. Lee will make their home on State Street, Wellsville.

THE SQUARE MAN.

Always Measures the Same, whatever Side you Come Up to Him.

The square man measures the same each way and hasn't any crooked lumber about him. He is free from knots and sap and don't warp. He is clear stuff and no matter what you work him up in, he won't swell or shrink. He is among men what good kin-dried boards are among carpenters. It doesn't make any difference what side of him you come up to, he is the same bigness each way, and anyhow, the only way you can get at him is face to face. He knows he is square and never spends time trying to prove it. The square man is the best shaped man the world ever produced.

NO MORE CENTS IN RURAL MAIL BOXES

ALL RURAL FREE DELIVERY PATRONS MUST STAMP THEIR OWN MAIL MATTER AFTER FEBRUARY 15TH.

Washington, Jan. 24.—Patrons living on rural delivery routes, after February 15, stamp all mail matter mailed in their mail-boxes. The Postoffice Department has instructed all postmasters at rural delivery offices that it will not be sufficient, after the date named, to put money in the box to pay postage for matter deposited.

The department estimates that rural mail carriers were compelled during the past year to fish some 200,000,000 copper cents out of mail boxes, and a good many million of these were frozen to the box. The result has been a considerable delay in the collection of mail.

VOTERS NOT GUILTY.

We are in Receipt of the Following Which Explains Itself.

"The voters of Andover can console themselves with one thing and that is, that they are not responsible for the tragedy which recently occurred in our community. They did not by their votes legalize the sale of the stuff which, either directly or indirectly, caused the death of the young man. The responsibility rests with the man who sold the stuff. The voter's conscience is clear. The man who really did the deed was the man who broke the law on the start, and provided the poison. Justice may be slow in coming but it always comes eventually.

"The mill of God's goes slowly round, But the grist that goes there, is sure to be ground."

And sometime, some where, Justice will be meted out in this case as in all others. In the meantime the Andover Voter must have resolved by this time that he will never again legalize the whiskey business, and run the chances of being morally responsible for what is nothing less than murder. Mr. Voter you have had a lesson. Don't forget it."
