129 YEARS AGO TO-DAY

The First Settlement Was Made In Australia

The early Australian settlers have become wonderfully prosperous—namely because they had money in the beginning with which to purchase large tracts of land. Without capital one cannot make fast headway, so let us help you to a real start in life. Open an account at once and add to it regularly. You'll be surprised to see how rapidly it will grow.

While Neil King was drawing logs near Canisteo, on day last week, the hobs slued over a bank and the team, and load fell 150 feet to the creek-bed below. One of the horses was killed and the other badly injured, but the driver miraculously escaped serious injury.

The activities of the small Chambers of Commerce in this part of the universe are more prevalent, than is usual. This means that the smaller places are becoming convinced of the benefits derived from such meetings. The town without them is the town that will lose.

A wildcat was shot in McHenry Valley, near Almond, by Hornell hunters, Tuesday. The cat was a young one and measured 45 inches from tip to tip, weighing 30 pounds. Years ago these animals were plenty in this region, but of late they have become nearly extinct here.

Lyle Karr, 15 years of age, a student in the Almond High School, had fifteen teeth knocked out, his lips and face terribly lacerated, and it is feared received internal injuries in a coasting accident, Monday night. The sled upon which he was riding ran into a large bob-sled. The lad was unconscious when picked up.

It has 8 cylinders, is 17 feet long, and the body is painted light grey. The inside is finished in mahogany and is lighted by a done light in the center of the ceiling.

While Roy Dayton, of Wellsville, was driving a lively horse down Main Street in that place, last Sunday evening, a line broke and the animal started for the livery barn. He was going so fast he couldn't make the turn and plunged through a plate glass window in the Kilban shoe store. Fortunately no one was seriously injured.

AUDITORIUM

Double Show, Wednesday Evening, With Two Eminent Stars

The beautiful Hazel Dawn, remembered for her recent portrayal of "The Saleslady," will be seen Wednesday evening in "The Feud Girl," a picture of unusual strength taken in the wild mountains of Georgia with many of its real natives in the background.

Sessue Hayakawa will be seen in the interesting and original story, "Alien Souls." Like "The Cheat" in which this famous star appeared here recently, the settings of Japanese exterior and interior are of singular charm and beauty.

In a statement, George E. Green, state commissioner of excise, announced a ruling that no alcoholic beverage can be issued legally between midnight Saturday and 1 a. m. Tuesday, Jan. 23, in the first and second class cities, and from Saturday to midnight Monday in cities of third class.

Mrs. P. C. Berkwater is among those reported ill in the village this week.

Sometimes it is just as well to lay off as to work, for instance Thursday, January 11th, two Erie freight trains came together, near Carleton, and fireman F. D. Mansburg was quite severely injured. If Clayton Mead, former-jury of Andover, had not been laying off, he would have been the unlucky fireman as that, is his regular run, and his train that piled up.

Tramps are certainly getting bold and ugly, many of the local papers having accounts of their doings. The Canaseraga Times reports that a tramp when ordered to leave the home of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Nixon, knocked them both down and beat Mr. Nixon so his condition is serious. In our own village George Bloss was stopped on his way home, on Water Street, recently and money demanded, but Geo. bluffed him.

This seems to be a "Jonah" week for the Wellsville doctors. While returning from a professional call at Alma, by the Brimmer Brook road, Monday afternoon, Dr. Comstock's car skidded into a ditch and turned turtle breaking the doctor's collar-bone; and Wednesday morning, train 22 on the Erie, hit the Olsmobile driven by Dr. Roos. The car was thrown from the track, the rear end of the tonneau and wheels smashed and the top and windshield broken. Dr. Roos clung to the steering-wheel but had his left arm and several ribs broken and was badly cut about the head by the broken windshield. He claims he did not hear any whistle from the train, or see the flagman.

James Leon and family, of Black Creek, were burned out Sunday, Jan. 14th. The fire started from a defective chimney and had a good start before being discovered. The house burned to the ground with all its contents. This is the second time the Leon family have been similarly burned out in a few years.

A bad valve at the Andover pump station recently let air enough into the Hornell line to put out a number of fires in Hornell and cause quite a disturbance in that city. The prompt steps taken by the Gas Company however prevented any accident.

While going home the other evening the station agent at Roulette, Pa., had the pleasure of looking down the barrel of a revolver and being asked for his pocketbook. However, by a clever ruse he managed to give them an empty one and save the railroad and express company money.

The striking of an oil well in Florida has created much excitement among the oil magnets especially the Standard Oil people. Stock in that section has raised from $10 to $285 and can only be purchased by people already owning stock there.

Prof. Bishop has been connected with this department several years. The department contains six or seven instructors and a salary of $3,150 goes with Prof. Bishop's position.
