52 YEARS AGO TO-DAY

Lincoln and the Confederate Peace Commission, Stephens, Hunter and Campbell, met at Hampton Roads to Arrange Terms of Peace Between the North and South.

During this awful civil strife many homes and fortunes were devastated, but since terms of peace were signed our country has united in love and prosperity, and from the ruins of the war many fortunes have since sprung.

DEFEATS ENTERTAIN

The defeated side, in a contest in Edward Seaman Relief Corps, entertained the "winners" to a six o'clock dinner at Union Hall, Monday evening.

The guests were seated at an attractively arranged table, after a search with puzzle place cards, and served a four course dinner by "dusky" waiters in white uniforms, with the dignity and skill of professionals.

Following the dinner the guests were required to do some fine needle work and several other stunts requiring the ability expected from a winning side. Prizes were awarded Mrs. Jenkins, Mrs. Eliza Cooper, Mrs. Almond Crandall and Mrs. R. Howland.

The defeated side paid their forfeit in a royal manner and a jolly evening was the result. The captains of the competing sides were Mrs. Leila Livermore and Mrs. Emma Robbins.
