In Russia German intrigue has overreached itself and accomplished the result its enemies desired. While ostensibly acting as an ally of the entente powers, Russia, like other countries, has been overrun by German spies and intriguers until Russia had become divided into pro-German and anti-German parties. The anti-Germans of the democracy and the pro-Germans of the aristocracy, and paid German obstructivists who rendered the work of the army as unavailing as they could. They had the assistance of the Czarina, who is of German birth, and she was the power behind the throne. The opposition to the war against Germany has brought about the downfall of the autocracy and placed democracy in power which will now prosecute the war unobstructed. Sign Boards on the Up-road

By Hamilton B. Williams

There is no spot nor place in all God's universe where He is not, and never a form of life that is not twisted into His being. There is no human being outside the kindly compassion of God whose every emotion is a sunflash of love. Back of all love is a thought of welfare for the love-object, and we affirm our belief in a Father upon that promise.

It is no small exercise of the mind to believe in the Immanence of God. Primitive people always set Him outside and credit Him with the grossest emotions of the human heart—attributing to the most wonderfully compassionate God even revenge and capacity of dreadful retaliation for mistakes and blunders. A narrow, bigoted, exclusive, intolerant mind invariably makes God to be such as himself, and the broadminded and sympathetic make God like that. The traditional Satan affirmed what God would do under certain conditions. The biggest hearts of the universe have always taught a big-hearted God. Jesus arising above all daring made Him a Father of exquisite sensitiveness and unmeasurable forgiveness. The capacity of affirming belief in the Immanent God as opposed to the primitive concept of a far-off God in some far-off heaven marks one as being intelligent.

No one knows how far the chastisement for sin extends in other phases of existence beyond the earth-experience, but this is certain, that every moment of chastisement is a moment of anguish to Him who loves us—like a father: he pities us. For if God loves He suffers.

There is a stronger reason for living clean and right and true and high and humanly than the dread of punishment. It is the dread of hurting the feelings of our Father. Unless a life program be conceived from that sense of honor toward God, it is a slave's living.

Jesus puts life upon this positive basis. Thou shalt be perfect—merciful—because our Father in heaven is so.

Unless one feels the fine honor of being friends and neighbors to all with whom we rub elbows in the world, it is a hireling's poor farce of playing a friend.

Unless we have a concept of the value of human beings and respect their divine relation we shall surely treat them by the value-idea we have of them.

There can be no abiding service that is not grounded upon a vast love for personality.

If we conceive people to be poor fellow worms, we shall treat them so; if we believe them to be children of God so shall we treat them.

The life-idea of Jesus makes sacred every thought and action of life. We worship as wonderfully in the field as in the temple; we lift as pleasing a sacrifice in our work as we do in our prophecy. Everything is sacramental to a soul whose God is in the world everywhere.

The only valid reason for inspiring people to become friends with Jesus is the fact that in Him is life—life here, life beyond, life as it is to be experienced according to the Plan of God.

A fine start—and this is the only proof of being in Christ's fellowship—a fine start toward Eternal Life is by friendship.

If an angel from heaven came to earth and made loud proclamation of his residence there and said to be a friend, I should know he lied.

If any human being's religion may not be set forth in equation of friendship—in word in deed, in thought, in impulse, that religion that it have every seemingly supernatural approbation must be branded as false. By Him who said:

Men shall know you are my disciples

When you love one another.

Boston Man Tells His Experience With "Fruit-a-lives"—Now Made in U.S.A.

MR. JAS. J. ROYALL
S.S. "Boston", Central Wharf, Boston, Mass., April 20th, 1914.

"For three years, I was troubled with Constipation. At times, the attacks would be very severe, accompanied by Dizziness and Violent Headaches. I took medicine and laxatives the whole time, but as soon as I discontinued the treatment, my bowels would refuse to move. Last October, I went to Montreal and there heard of 'Fruit-a-lives'. I used one box and the results were so pronounced that I bought two dozen boxes. I continued using 'Fruit-a-lives' and noticed a decided improvement. I gradually reduced the dose from three capsules to one tablet every three or four days until the twenty-four boxes were finished when my physical condition was perfect." JAS. J. ROYALL.
