OFFICERS FOUND DRAY LOAD OF BOOZE

Hotel Belmont Raided on Court Order Saturday Night, With Result That Mine Host Walsh Was Relieved of Wet Goods.

(Wellsville Reporter)

The story comes from Belmont that a large quantity of beer and liquors was seized by officers in a room in the basement of the Hotel Belmont, Saturday night. It has been notorious for some time that liquor was being dispensed through the source in Belmont, and it is believed that a search of the hotel premises would reveal the source of supply. Under the command of Constable Morehouse, Judge Reynolds issued an order of search and seizure, and Saturday night, about 9 o'clock, Officer Morehouse and Sheriff Weir went to the raid.

In a room in the basement of the hotel off the pool room, there were captured a small wagon load of wet goods. By actual count there were 706 bottles of popular brands of beer, 59 sealed quart bottles of apparently good quality whiskey, 10 pint bottles of whiskey, a 20 gallon keg of whiskey, 4 bottles of gin, 8 bottles of rock wine, a 5 gallon cask of sherry wine, and a 10 gallon cask of wine, each partly full; two bottles of rum, and some bottles of range bitters and other tonics. There was booze enough to erect a stock a regulation bar, and it is stated that Myron Walsh, the proprietor of the Belmont, was in charge of the department.

Judge Reynolds order is reliable on April 20th at which time it is probable that under the procedures the liquors will be confiscated to the State of New York.

The friends of Walsh are much disappointed that he should have permitted this apparent violation of the law in face of the declaration of the voters of Belmont that no liquors must be sold in town. The hotel man who is to abide by the decision of the voters is not entitled to any sympathy or consideration.

Battle Hymn of the Republic

MINI eyes have seen the glory of the coming Lord.
He is tramping out the vintage
where the grapes of wrath
are stored;
He hath loosed the fateful lightning
of His terrible, quick sword:
His truth is marching on.

I have seen Him in the watchfires
of a hundred circling camps;
They have builded Him an altar in the evening dews and
damps;
I have read His righteous sentence by the dim and flaring
lamps:

His day is marching on.

I have read a fiery gospel, writ in burnished rows of steel,
"As ye deal with My contemners, so with you My grace shall deal."

Let the Hero, born of woman, crush the serpent with His heel,

Since God is marching on.

He has sounded forth the trumpet that shall never call retreat;

He is sifting out the hearts of men before His judgment seat.

O, be swift, my soul, to answer Him! Be jubilant, my feet!

Our God is marching on.

In the beauty of the lilies Christ was born across the sea,
With a glory in His bosom that transfigures you and me;
As He died to make men holy, let us die to make men free, While God is marching on.

WAS SHOT AND KILLED BY HUSBAND

After Killing Wife Goulde
Called up Deputy Sheriff, Saying, "Well, I Have Killed Her—Molly. Come Get Me."

Bath, April 9.—Mrs. William Goulde, better known as "Molly" Hartnett, was shot and killed by her husband at the home in West Morris Street, early Sunday morning. The first news of the tragedy was when Goulde called Deputy Sheriff Robert Robinson at the county jail, asking him to come and take the murderer into custody.

Goulde said to Robinson: "Well, I have killed her—Molly; you had better come right up and get me. I will dress and be ready by the time you get here."

The officer at first thought Goulde was intoxicated and was not inclined to believe him. However, the phone soon called again. This time it was Mrs. Stella Stewart, who was at the Goulde home at the time of the shooting. She told the officer that she had heard a shot, and believed Goulde had tried to kill his wife. She asked the police to come at once.

Deputy Robinson with Deputy Ray Wheaton hurried to the scene and found Goulde as he had promised, dressed, sitting beside the stove waiting for them. He again reiterated his statement that he had shot and killed his wife, and turned over the weapon, a 22-calibre rifle. At his direction the officers proceeded upstairs where they found the body of Mrs. Goulde lying in the doorway of her bedroom. The bullet had struck her in her left breast, probably severing an important blood vessel, for she had suffered a hemorrhage of the mouth. The body was still warm.

The officers took Goulde to the county jail. He was apparently intoxicated, and confused as to his statements. District Attorney Edwin S. Brown, of Cohocton, was advised, and he came about 10 o'clock. With the officers he went to the Goulde home and viewed the body, and also had an interview with Mrs. Stella Stewart, who was in the house at the time of the shooting.

Mrs. Stewart said that Goulde and his wife had trouble at supper time on Saturday night, because the meal was not ready. Each called the other harsh names, and finally Goulde left the house saying he was going to Hammondsport. Mrs. Goulde retired as did also, Mrs. Stewart Goulde returned home about 11 o'clock. About 3 o'clock Mrs. Stewart arose and went down stairs to get a drink of water. When she returned, Goulde followed her upstairs. Mrs. Stewart went into Mrs. Goulde's room and talked with her a minute. As she turned to leave the room she saw Goulde in the doorway with a gun in his hands.

He said, "I will knock the liver out of her."
Mrs. Stewart screamed, "Please don't, Uncle Billy," at the same time rushing past him out of the room and down the stairs. As she ran from the house, she heard a shot. She proceeded to the home of a neighbor and there telephoned the officers.

Goulde was seen at the county jail by the district attorney. Goulde had somewhat recovered himself and told a different story from that first given the officers. He said that his dog insisted upon howling during the night, and that he was so annoyed that he secured the gun, intending to kill the animal; that as he passed the door of his wife's bedroom, he must have stumbled, the gun being discharged, the shot taking effect in his wife's breast. It is believed, however, that Mrs. Goulde from her position on the bed, saw her husband with the gun, realized his sinister intent, and that she jumped from the bed and ran towards him just as he fired the shot. The position of the body would indicate such a theory.

Goulde, who is about 60 years old, and a Civil War veteran, has been in the toils of the police on many occasions. His last conviction was a 30-day sentence for drunkenness on a commitment by the city court of Corning.

Mrs. Goulde was about 40 years old, and formerly lived at Hornell. Her mother, Maria Hartnett, who is totally blind, lived with Mrs. Goulde. The mother did not hear the shot, nor was she aware of the tragedy until informed.

Goulde will be arraigned on Tuesday at the convenience of District Attorney Brown.

OLD MAN ROBBED WEEPS IN COURT

Henry K. Barnhart, an Aged Springwater Man Arrested in Corning, Breaks Down When Given Railroad Fare Home.

On his first visit to Elmira, 52 years, Henry J. Barnhart, 74 years old, a basket maker from Springwater, N. Y., was robbed of his pocket-book containing $9, and he also, as much as he regretted to say it, drank too much liquor.

His drinking led to his arrest at Lake and Water Streets Saturday night and when arraigned in Recorder's Court, honest tears were streaming down his cheeks. He felt he was old enough to know better than be arrested.

Barnhart had expected to go to Athens to see some friends, but his experience in Elmira changed his mind and he decided to return home by way of Corning. He was without funds to purchase a ticket and he cried like a child when he told Recorder Gardner of the robbery Saturday night. He felt much worse over begging for money than about the loss of the $9, and when the recorder and Clerk Phillips "dug down" in their pockets to give him enough change for railroad fare the old gentleman broke down completely. It was indeed a pitiful sight and it touched the heart strings of every one in the court.

PRESBYTERIAN

MEN BANQUET

The men's banquet Friday night in the Presbyterian Church parlors was a most enjoyable affair. About thirty-five members of the Presbyterian congregation sat down to a delightful banquet served by the ladies of the King's Daughters of the church.

Proceeding and during the banquet instrumental selections on the piano and pipe organ by Mrs. H. B. Williams and Mrs. Ray Williams were much appreciated.

The "toasts" were informal and very interesting, discussion centering around the idea of what might be accomplished for the betterment of the church and community by the united efforts of such a gathering of men. Good fellowship and cheer were evident throughout the entire evening, and the wish often expressed that many more such social evenings might be enjoyed by the men of the Presbyterian Church.
