Buy a Liberty Bond—then buy another.

Keep right on digging. Every lick means another bite.

If you can't swat the Kaiser you can at least swat the fly.

Pay your subscription brother. We want to buy a Liberty Bond.

Keep smiling. That scowl will not keep you out of the trenches.

Senator Lewis advocates hanging for the food hog. Get a rope.

A Barnacle: The fellow who won't fight, won't work, won't buy a bond.

We hear less these days of war brides. "War grooms" have occupied the spotlight.

The Lord loves a cheerful giver and a hard hitter. Buy a Liberty Bond or enlist—or both.

Up with the cuss who wants to down the Government. The stouter the limb the longer he'll swing.

The Prussian government apparently is in a quandary. It wants to know who is the government.

Twenty-five butter and egg speculators have just been indicted in Chicago. Give 'em 25 years apiece.

The Government has just contracted for seventeen million dollars worth of shoes. Gosh!! We need a pair.

Thrifty Housewife: Billy, Billy, come quick. I have found a spud! Now we can pay off the mortgage.

Having kicked their masters out the Russian people are up against an even harder job in kicking themselves in.

Women's bathing costumes this season are very fetching, but it requires a powerful telescope to find anything to fetch.

A subscriber writes to know if we ever saw a perfect man. Does the gink think we have no mirror in our own home?

Looking for a wife, young man? The former Czar has three charming daughters who are quite available with no takers.

For once we are perfectly willing to see Congress remain on the job—until they provide for jangling or hanging the food hogs.

If prices continue their soaring we can go naked if need be, but we cannot eat wind or wear air. Price regulation must come in every line of industry.

We are strong for the draft if it will take some politicians we might mention. Dying for one's country is a whole heap better than living at the expense of it.

Soon many of our young men will be hunting the trenches in France, while others will be ogling pretty girls on the bathing beach. Yes, there's a differ-

WIFE FARMERS
PRactical ADVICE
 If all the gratuitous advice tendered the farmers since the food crisis developed were compiled in one work, the Encyclopaedia Britannica would look like a child's primer in comparison to said volume. Possibly there was some sound sense in portions of it. Certainly the major portion of it was the merest drivel.

It is not advice that the farmers need. If there is a class of men in the nation to-day, who are really familiar with every phase of their profession, it is the farmer. And it is often with a feeling of amused contempt that they read the senseless vapourings of the wiseacres who essay to instruct them.

What the farmer is in dire need of right now is more man power—man power to put into effect the plans he is perfectly capable of formulating and carrying out if he has agents to do his bidding. Let him be ever so intelligent—and as a rule he is a person of sound sense and reason—he simply cannot cultivate a hundred-acre farm by himself. But he can utilize a thousand acres if he has the man power with which to do it, for he already has the brains.

We should make no mistake in the matter. With practically the world to feed, if this war is won the farmers will play an important part in the winning, and all of the advice from those slackers who have nothing else to give is not going to help him one whit.

"Can" the advice and offer him work—good, sound muscle and sweat—and the American farmer will feed the world and do his "bit" toward winning the war.

The most obvious fact to the farmer is that, in the approaching draft and mobilization, the first army to be raised should be an army of the furrows and that army should be brought to the furrows from other fields of work—or idleness. And at no time will this need be more pressing than during this fall in harvest time.

The average farmer can extract all of the advice he needs just now from a long life of experience. What will be most effective now is bone and muscle backed by a willing mind and an intelligence that even approaches its own.

Get the man power. The farmers will do the rest.

MORE REPORTORIALS
 —A. Frank Honey, proprietor of the Hotel Connor, Wellsville, N. Y., died at his home in the corner of Genesee and Loder Sts., Saturday, June 9th, after several months illness.

—Miss Margaret Scott, of Barney Mills, and George Rollins, of Greenwood, were united in marriage at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Allie Scott, Wednesday, May 30th.

—Attorney Milton C. Powell, of Canisteo, recently presented the Abraham Allen Post G. A. R. of Canisteo, with a stick of wood three feet long and 3 inches in diameter, that was a part of the Andersonville prison.

—It has been decided to move the Fillmore Library building to a lot owned by Miss Mary Crowley and make an up-to-date and attractive library for that village. The Wide Awake Club of that place is back of the movement.

—The worst cloudburst in this section this year struck Alfred and Almond last week. Thanks to the deepening of the creek and the new docking, no great damage was done, but many crops were washed out and fields badly cut up by the downpour.

—Correl Albert Barney died June 7th, following an illness of eight months, with tuberculosis, at Saganae Lake, where he had been under treatment. Deceased was the adopted son of the late Dr. and Mrs. Herbert Barney of Belmont.

—Harold Barber, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Barber, a high school boy who is at present working on a farm between Portville and Cuba, writes home that he had a most peculiar accident on the evening of May 26th, while returning home from town. He states he was a short distance on his way when he was overtaken by a heavy electric storm and he himself was severely shocked, thrown to the ground and a part of one of his shoes torn from his foot. He suffered no ill effect from the shock and went on home without assistance. "Pretty lucky, we say." — Belmont Dispatch.

Our farmers will see that there is plenty of food produced in this country, but they cannot keep it out of the hands of the damnable speculating hogs. Governmental action now will save trouble later.

—William Barlow, of Bolivar, has been made field foreman for the Tidewater Pipe Line Company in this district.

The fellow who hired his children to go to bed without supper and then stole their money while they slept, is discounted for cussedness by the one who cut all the eyes from a load of potatoes before selling the spuds.

Alien citizens of allied nations in this country should not be allowed to remain in safety here while our own men are sent abroad to fight. Put them in the army or send 'em home.

The old style of ad, which aimed to somewhat mislead the reader—or to "stampede" people into buying—has gone out of use.

ORCUTT—SMITH
 Miss Hazel Velma Orcutt and Charles Glenn Smith, of Olean, were married at the family residence of the bride on Second Avenue, Wednesday evening June 6th. The ceremony was performed by Rev. G. R. Williamson, pastor of the First Methodist Church, in the presence of about 75 guests, the double ring service being used.

The bride's gown was white crepe de chine and lace and she carried a shower bouquet of brides roses and lilies of the valley. The bride was given in marriage by her father. As the wedding party took their place before a bank of palms, ferns and lilies in the bow window of the living room the wedding march from Lohengrin was played by Miss Foss, and after the service she played Mendelssohn's wedding march. Following the service a reception and buffet luncheon was held.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith left on a trip including Buffalo, Akron, Cleveland and Detroit, and after July 1st they will be at home at 434 Second Avenue, where the groom, who is employed as traveling salesman for W. L. Foss & Sons, has a home furnished.

Mr. Smith is a grandson of Comrade Isaac Smith of Andover and in his boyhood days lived at the Smith home near this village.

VIVIAN MARTIN IN "HER FATHER'S SON," Saturday Evening
 The sweet winsomeness and endearing charm of Vivian Martin are alone enough to guarantee the worth of productions in which she is starred. Add to these a splendid story, admirably suited to her wonderful personality, and a combination is effected which will delight every one. In "Her Father's Son," Miss Martin plays a dual role, both charming and exciting. Romance is cleverly interwoven with drama and fun in a story enacted in an atmosphere and locale of historic Southern chivalry and traditions.
