A telegram from Bartlesville Oklahoma, to Andover relatives Wednesday evening announces the death of Bartley Dean, at that place. He is a brother of Wm. and John Dean of this place. The remains are being sent here for interment.

A serious automobile accident occurred near the Langworthy home in Railroad Valley Friday evening, when a large American touring car, driven by Wellsville parties, lost a wheel and turned turtle, rolling over three times. The men were seriously injured and the car badly wrecked.

Members of Edward Seamon Relief Corps and their guests, to the number of about sixty, gathered at the home of their president, Mrs. Addie Coleman on Chestnut St., Tuesday afternoon, where the hours were pleasantly passed with music, games, and a social time generally, until five o'clock when a tureen dinner was served. The Verandas and parlors were decorated with the national colors and golden glow, and the occasion was one of the many enjoyable social affairs for which this organization is noted.

College days, a long auto trip across the continent to California, a beautiful little waif who, tramping the dusty road, meets, and is given a lift in "The Right Direction" by a rich man's son—these all play important parts in the Pallas-Paramount photoplay "The Right Direction," coming to the Auditorium Saturday. This Pallas Picture is a story with a great heart interest theme of Polly, the homeless "little moth" to baby brother "Rilly Boy" and her adventurous "but fear" less dealings with the many kinds of people she meets on her long journey.

Mr. and Mrs. Irving Jones of Alfred, Aug. 19th.

A considerable damage was done to crops east of here by hail last week.

B. Love of Olean was a business visitor in Andover last week looking over the wiring contract soon to be let in this village.

Tom Forman, the splendid young Lasky juvenile, Walter Long and a number of other prominent artists are included in the cast supporting Blanche Sweet in the Jesse L. Lasky production "The Evil Eye", which will be seen at the Auditorium on Wednesday. This thrilling photodrama was written especially for Miss Sweet by the noted photodramatist, Hector Turnbull and prepared for the screen by Georg D. Procter. Mr. Turnbull's story was taken from an actual occurrence at one of the vineyard settlements of California and shows the superstitions of the Americanized Mexicans in spite of their continued contact with educated people. In this Paramount picture Miss Sweet is seen as a woman doctor.

Nothing stops The Great Hornell Fair which will be held next week as usual. The management believes that educational advantages along agricultural lines and clean amusements are more necessary and desirable during the war than during peace times. A bigger and better Fair will be the result and an unusually large attendance of satisfied patrons will undoubtedly again approve the efforts of this Association producing "The Big One" again this year.

PRECIOUS RUGS ARMY COTS

Fierce Soldiers of the Sultan Now Sleep on Ruined Armenia's Most Rare Products.

Erzerum, which fell before the Russian advance, was the ancient capital of Armenia and long the center of the oriental rug-making district until it became the center of the theater of war in that part of the world, says the San Francisco Argonaut. West of Erzerum lies the heritage of the "unspeakable" Turk, whence nearly a million Armenians have been transported, whither—no one knows. These are said to be the most intelligent rug makers of the Orient.

Moreover, it will take several years to reproduce materials which can be used in rug making, principally wool and dyes, for, following the war, the people of these countries will care for their immediate needs, such as building homes and raising food products. Thousands of the most beautiful rugs are now rotting away in the Persian gulf.

Turkish soldiers use many of them for bedding at the front or destroy them. The antique oriental rugs made in homes are no more, for the homes have been burned and destroyed, the people massacred or carried away.

PROCESS AN INTRICATE ONE

Just What It Means When One Writes Only a Simple Letter of the Alphabet.

To write a single letter of the alphabet it is roughly estimated requires from 200,000 to 200,000 distinct processes, all of which are controlled and directed by the mind. To make the letter "O," for instance, takes but a second, yet if all the mental processes involved had to be performed consciously, years would be consumed in the performance.

First, the making of the "O" is willed in the brain, setting in motion the activities of thousands of cells in the hearing areas, the seeing areas, the speech motor areas, and the muscular motor areas. Hundreds of nerve threads connecting these cells with various cells and nerve threads in the brain are set to work to organize the movement while other nerve centers attend to the business of furnishing the requisite amount of blood.

As a result, the spinal nerve centers are actuated, and finally the smaller nerves in the fingers direct the forming of the "O."

MUCH POTASH IN CUBA.

In Cuba enormous discoveries of potash have been made 100 miles east of Havana by a chemist of the Cuban department of agriculture. A sample picked at random over the 10,000 acres covered with the deposit, borne out by other assays from the same region, discloses 40 per cent of soluble potash. The discovery of this mineral was owing to ordinary scrub palm, which commonly grows only 20 or 30 feet high, reaching a height in this section of 100 feet and over. The ash of one of these palms yielded 16 per cent of potash, and a Virginia fertilizing company, learning of the fact, conceived the idea of burning the trees to obtain the residuum. A large number of claims have been registered.
