

WHAT A GROCERYMAN DID

Some time ago a young man started in the grocery business on a small scale in one of the small towns. He had no capital and was in debt for a previous season in his family. But he had a cheerful disposition and pluck, and he put small sums into the bank from time to time.

Today he is supporting a family of three children; has a bank worth $1,500; a good trade; a nice bank account and credit at his bank.

We have a number of people banking here with us whose bank account is quite a factor in their advancement. Why not join them and carry your account here?

The 41st Harvest Home.
This year marks another successful Harvest Home Picnic, and a triumph of the skill and efficiency of the men and women of the church. The dinner was most excellent and was served to 357 people. Mr. Bacon and Mr. Cameron of Hornell, made excellent speeches. Mr. Cameron's address was one of the best patriotic addresses ever given to an Andover audience. Hon. J. S. Phillips presided in his always happy manner. The Band played most pleasingly at the dinner hour and on the street in the evening. Every event of the day was successful and the occasion will long be remembered.

The Sunday School
Mrs. Mourhess began her duties as acting superintendent last Sunday with enthusiasm, and made the session very profitable. Now that the church is under way again let every one be found at their place with zeal.

The Tallman
The minister announces the topic in the hope that no one in the congregation may fail to be present. This sermon is one of the most important ever prepared for the people of the church. Special emphasis is laid upon the invitation to be present.

WOULDN'T WEAR 'EM.
"So you got rid of your pretty pet dogs?"
"Yes," replied Mrs. Flimgilt. "They were such unfashionable little brutes. They would insist on shedding their furs during the summer."

NO NEED OF ALARM.
"I see you have a sharper working for you."
"Goodness gracious! Who is it?"
"That scissors-grinder."

PLENTY OF MATERIAL.
"Was the last discussion your club had a heated debate?"
"It ought to have been from all the hot air in it."

JUST SO.
"They say you can keep off mosquitoes with those Chinese joss sticks."
"That's all punk."
