 The Russians are fighting a running battle near Rega. They withdraw on the approach of the enemy. They act on the saying that "They who fight and run away may live to fight another day."
 The Central powers are heartily sick of their war. They "bit off more than they can chew."
 It is not surprising that the Central Allies, after their countless prevarications, should now claim and try to make it appear that they have always been for peace. It is apparent why they call for peace now.
 Tim Blair and family attended the Big Fair Wednesday.
 Earl Jackson visited his father Wednesday.
 The country will probably need twenty-one billions to meet war expenses for the year.

NEEDS GOOD FARM HORSES.

State Encourages Breeding of Right Type of Heavy Draft Animals. New York Horses Have Big Value.
 The importance of the draft horse department at the State Fair is best appreciated when it is considered that the horses on New York farms have a valuation of $10,000,000 and that the exhibition has always been representative of these great horse interests.
 Although the tractor plow has come into use in the state, there will for many years be a demand for draft horses on the farms of average size, and the State Agricultural Department is encouraging the breeding of farm horses of the most useful type.
 War business has furnished a further incentive to the farm horse breeder, for it has given him a chance to dispose of his surplus stock at high prices.
 State Fair Commissioner Calvin J. Huson, who has long directed the heavy horse show at the Fair, announces that the prizes offered by the state for this department aggregate $8,416, and in addition there will be a number of special prizes contributed by horse breeding societies. Among the best known breeds to be shown at the Fair will be Percherons, Belgian, Suffolk, Hackney and the standard bred trotter, which the average farmer considers a useful breed for crossing with the heavy draft stallions.
 With a view of improving the type of everyday farm horse the commission has opened several classes for draft grades, competition being limited to horses actually owned and in use in the state.
 A new feature of the heavy horse show will be a farm boys' judging contest, in which prizes aggregating $300 will be awarded to the young farmers whose decisions come nearest to the final awards by the professional judges. The object of this competition is to educate the boys in selecting farm horses of the proper type.

STATE FAIR HORSE SHOW.

Entries From Stables of Hunters and Jumpers Promise New World's Record.
 The horse show, with its follow-up from the smart set of Newport, Mineola and other noted resorts where interest in the fashionably bred equine never wanes, will again furnish a pleasing feature of the State Fair.
 Assurances have been received by Commissioner Pierre Lorillard, Jr., directing this department, that practically all of the large stables which have been at the Fair for several years will be exhibited, and interesting competition is promised.
 A special effort is to be made for large fields in the jumping classes, which never fail to furnish highly spectacular exhibitions. Some of the best hunters and jumpers of America have been entered, and a special class is now planned in an effort to establish a new high jumping record.

The first big test of a store is in its ability to afford Buying Opportunities—genuine ones—is a continuance sequence. And the next best is the adequacy of the advertising campaign in getting the "news" of every such buying opportunity to the people.

A store's medium of communication with you is thru its ads. When it fails to advertise, it's reasonable for you to assume that it has nothing to say to you.
