

HELPING A YOUNG BUSINESS MAN

A CERTAIN young business man started in with a bank account. He kept it up; was a young man of steady and industrious habits and convinced his bank that he would make good. After a time a splendid business opportunity came his way. He had almost enough in the bank to take advantage of it and his bank loaned him the balance.

Why not start in to bank here and establish a solid and substantial basis for credit when you need it? Many of our most successful business men started in this way.

A Reception Tuesday Evening

The Sunday School scholars and others of the congregation gave Miss Frances Ensworth a farewell reception last Tuesday evening, in the church parlors.

The occasion was very pleasant and was a well deserved honor for Miss Ensworth who for many years has been a most successful teacher in the Sunday School and valuable member of the church. Her departure to Denver, Colo. is with the regret of the people of the church. Those present wished her a safe journey and many years of usefulness. After a delightful luncheon prepared by the young ladies of the Sunday School, Mr. Williams gave Miss Ensworth a beautiful ring, the gift of her pupils and friends. A pleasant feature of the evening was the singing of the children of the primary department and by the young ladies of the choir.

Program for the Year

Prayer Meeting on Thursday evening will be resumed beginning Sept. 6th. The choir will assemble for rehearsal at this time. Evening meetings Sunday evenings will resume Sept. 9th.

The Religion of the Master is the Final solution of the Problem of Here and Hereafter. He who supports Religion is a Constructive Citizen of the World. He is doing his "bit" as a Friend and Neighbor.

SATURDAY NIGHT

THE ADVENTURE

Having wooed Louise Huff and lost her in the Famous Players' adaptation of Booth Tarkington's popular novel "Seven-enteen," Jack Pickford tries his hand at courtship again under the tutelage of Charles Dickens in the Famous Players' adaptation of the great novelist's "Great Expectations." In this Paramount Picture, which is the featured attraction Saturday night, Louise Huff is Estella and Jack Pickford is Pip. It is said that Jack progresses more satisfactorily under the old-fashioned methods of courtship than he did under present-day conditions.
