What is Coming to Pass?
 The people of the United States have a proposition for 1917 will be made out of war supplies. It is only wonder that people in Wall Street are asking: Do you think there is any danger of the war being stopped? There have been various propositions before the Senate to tax excess profits, and under analysis all these propositions have been judged in the interests of steel. Every effort to shift a substantial part of the war burden onto the capitalistic interests has met with defeat. Something like $4,000,000,000 additional is to be loaned to the Allies; and before many moons war will be costing the people of the United States one million dollars an hour. In the face of these frightful conditions Congress has stood by the rich all the way thru. The common people are the ones who will have to pay the tax.

Liberty Loan Advertising
 Groups of advertising interests have been bucking into Washington, attempting to secure appropriations for advertising the next Liberty Loan. They want a million and a half dollars, out of which they propose that the small papers of the country will receive $100,000, and the rest of the pot will be split between the Curtis publications, and a few other large groups. Of course the influential daily newspapers are to be taken care of—otherwise they might "spill the beans." At the United States Treasury the question of newspaper advertising is receiving serious consideration and the policy of giving the 16,000 small papers of the country some of the crumbs, is being looked on with favor. Mr. McAdoo is reported as having said that he believed "every paper should be treated exactly alike." Of course there may be no advertising at all. None was done for the first Liberty Loan, but more difficulty is expected with the next issue of bonds.

Hoover is Succeeding
 One after another of the great industrial agencies are coming to the front agreeing with Food Administrator Hoover upon price to be charged for food supplies. "The Hoover Administration is getting what it wants," declared one of the representatives of the largest institutions in the country. That tells the story rather completely. Mr. Hoover makes a business of finding out what prices are somewhere within reason, and then he gets the men who will handle the different commodities to agree to sell at a stipulated figure. That they are all doing it, because they know that if they do not, that the Government will proceed to set arbitrary prices, as was done in the case of the coal miners.

Mexico Is in Good Graces
 For a long time Mexico was under suspicion, but recent developments indicate that the Carranza Government has grown rapidly in favor of date, and the probabilities are that the republic to the southwest will eventually land a loan. All fear that German propaganda is being manipulated from Mexico has been removed.

Washington and the Pacifists
 While the People's Council was having its difficulties trying to meet in Minneapolis, Hudson and Chicago, the report gained ground that the pacifists would come to Washington to hold their sessions, and it was made plain thru the public press that the police would permit the meeting, and give it protection. The idea that free speech is to be suppressed is, apparently not as popular in the Capital as in the interior of the country. In Wash-

Vic. Murdock Comes Back
 A few years ago a young newspaper man came to Congress from the state of Kansas. This young Murdock smashed a lot of precedents, and when the "insurgents" broke loose, he was the most fiery of them all. Four years ago he was the leader of the small group of Progressives who came to Congress on the Roosevelt break from the Republican party. Afterwards he ran for Senator in Kansas and was defeated. Then he went to the last Progressive National convention, but refused to follow Roosevelt back into the Republican party. Just before election it was announced that he would support Wilson. Now he returns to Washington as a member of the Federal Trade Commission, a place for which he seems amply qualified. The Commission has some of the biggest war problems to handle, and it has grown into one of the most effective branches of the federal machine. Washington is pleased to have the "fiery Murdock" back again.

American Meat-Eaters
 The American people have been eating up their live-stock without replacing the supply for twenty-five years. In consequence beefsteaks have become almost a delicacy and pork shops an extravagance. Now a hundred and twenty-five live-stock specialists from all parts of the country have gathered in Washington to determine "what we are going to do about it." The war complicates matters, as this country is expected to send meats abroad, while it has an insufficient supply for the wants of our own people. Official statistics show that the meat supply according to the population, is only about half what it was a quarter century ago. Several million dollars worth of literature has been issued by the Government trying to induce the raising of cattle. But the propaganda has not been successful; and the 125 experts will do well if they suggest some other scheme besides coaxing farmers. Because the farmers won't be coaxed.

The Suffrage Jail Crop
 Nearly twenty women have been sentenced to jail for picketing the White House during the past month. It has developed at a meeting held in headquarters at Washington that the women are receiving large financial support. One of the women who had been in jail related at a gathering of her associates that she went "up into hard-shelled New England, and held meetings." She said the people came to hear her largely out of curiosity. And when she had finished her story $5,000 was subscribed to continue the work which now consists principally in picketing the White House. Evidently it is the purpose to send the women who have served jail sentences to all parts of the country to tell of their experiences and advocate woman suffrage.

Seven Tons of Politics
 There is a daily average of seven tons of frankable mail sent out by members of the two Houses of Congress from Washington. Nearly all of it is campaign material.

STATE PARAGRAPHS

The Rev. Andrew J. Wood, for two years in charge of the Anti-Saloon League of Western New York, has taken up his duties as associate superintendent of the metropolitan district of the league.

Joseph Hormate of Troy was elected president of the New York State Federation of Young Men's Hebrew Association and Kindred Bodies at the closing session of the annual convention in that city.

Describing Mrs. Hotty Green's business methods, her son testified at a state tax hearing that she made her millions by never speculating in Wall Street and by using uncanny judgment regarding her investments.

The Bank of Castle has received the plans for remodeling its building in Main street opposite their present location, which has been occupied 60 years as a hardware store, into a new bank building. It will be of colonial type, one story high and built of grey brick.

Another well in the Greenwood field, which has been but recently opened up, has been drilled in on the James Redmond and Robert McBeth farm, near Hornell. It is 1,050 feet deep and within 15 minutes after it was shot filled with 115 feet of 1 1/2-inch grade oil.

The first gun of the no license campaign which will be waged throughout Lewis county for the week preceding election was fired on Sunday, Sept. 9. Eleven speakers under the auspices of the Anti-Saloon League addressed meetings in over 27 churches.

Announcement was made by Superintendent L. P. Gillespie of Vassar that the college gardens, tilled by 12 girl students, had supplied enough foodstuffs to carry to 1,100 students, the faculty and livestock over until another year's harvest. Vassar is to reopen Sept. 21.

The Franklin county crop is nearly ready for harvest and the yards in the vicinity of Malone are looking exceptionally well, with little evidence of blight. The price promises to be high, judging from the present bids by dealers for the few early hops that are grown here.

Ten thousand persons crowded the railroad station at Binghamton to greet Sun Briar, champion two-year-old, after his successful season at Saratoga. A unique parade, which followed, was the signal for a city-wide celebration, arranged by the chamber of commerce.

The Bath National bank was the successful bidder for $10,000 worth of village school bonds, bids to which opened last week. The bank acquired the bonds at a premium of 400 on the total issue. As the bonds pay annual interest of five per cent, the net interest to the bank is 4.50.

Announcement was made in Rochester of the appointment of the Rev. Gilbert W. Barker of Rochester as superintendent of the Western New York district of the Anti-Saloon League, to succeed the Rev. Andrew J. Wood, now associate superintendent of the league's metropolitan district.

Designations of designations for candidates to be voted for at the coming primary elections have been filed by Dr. Adolph Leterlier of Seneca Falls, designated for coroner on the Democratic ticket, and by Dr. Daniel M. Kellogg of Interlaken, designated for member of assemblyman on the same ticket.

Colonel Gibson, commandant of the Watervliet arsenal, announced that the war department had apportioned $4,000,000 for extension of the plant and installation of machinery to meet war demands. Four thousand men will be put on the job at once and it is expected to complete the work some time next spring.

Something slipped a cog in the fuel administration machinery, as it worked out in Syracuse. Instead of the expected and promised drop in the price of coal on Sept. 1, an increase is announced by local dealers. Coal goes up 10 cents a ton. The September prices follow: Grate, egg and stove, $7.60 a ton; chestnut, $7.85; pea, $7.05.

Governor Whitman has signed Senator Wagner's bill which permits the New York city fire commissioner, with the approval of the mayor, to appoint emergency firemen to take the place of those members of the present uniformed force who may be drafted. The substitutes are to be free from civil service exactions. The bill was favored by Mayor Mitchell.

Mrs. James A. Wendell, wife of the first deputy state comptroller, was instantly killed in Albany, when she was struck by an automobile driven by 16-year-old Saul Mendelsohn, son of Ira Mendelsohn, a prominent merchant. The youth was released under $2,500 bail on a charge of manslaughter, only to be rearrested on a charge of driving an automobile under legal age.

Fare increase or bankruptcy awaits Orange County Traction company, declared ex-Governor Benjamin B. Odell before the up-state public service commission, unless the company could charge an extra cent for pas-
