

$18 $1,000,000

These are the amounts of the smallest and largest pieces of commercial paper the Federal reserve banks have thus far discounted for their member banks.

These figures strikingly illustrate the adaptability of this system, of which we are members, to the varying needs of borrowers. Its vast resources are always available for the protection of business, large or small.

If you are not already getting this protection as one of our depositors why not open a banking account today and secure it?
