

Schaal & Rooka Clothes

These clothes are the kind of clothes you want. They're developed in every good style of the season. They're smartly and smartly patterned. Their fabrics are of the long-wool kind—their tailoring, tenacity and shape-permanency and their price. The prices are extra-value prices for you.

In a general announcement like this it isn't easy to reduce so many lines of good clothes to detailed description. We're going to mention a few styles that indicate the all-around "Rightness" of the line. Belt all-around style, disappearing belt idea, inverted back, shirred back, side pinch effect, two and three button double-breasted sack, trench and half belt overcoats.

If you've decided on the style you want, you'll find it here. If you haven't decided as yet, this immense variety offers you great scope of selection and choice from the smartest of American style productions in Men's and Young Men's apparel at $15 to $38.

GREENWOOD LOCAL BRIEFS

Winter is upon us. Potatoes have a white cover. The farmer is caught again. New R. F. D. route Thursday. 1917 will go down as the year without a summer.

Scherette & Freeland, proprietors of the evaporator, are shipping in fruit for evaporation. The crop in this locality is very light but the imported stock is from the lake regions.

Our railroad ceases operations Dec. 1st. Its loss will be one of the greatest calamities that has fallen on the country along the line.

Food demonstration by the official food demonstrator at the Town Hall, Oct. 31st.

Farley Drake left Wednesday for New York City, where he has secured a lucrative job.

George W. Brundage is going to Hornell where he has engaged work. His family will remain in Greenwood.

George York, of Slate Creek, will move into the village, occupying the Shalley house.

John McCormick, of West Hill, was in town Monday.

Potatoes have touched the $1.02 mark on the downward grade. That price is in many cases less than the cost of production.

In the valleys and low lands in this locality the yield is light and many fields will not pay for digging. On the highlands the yield is better, and in some cases a big yield. Probably not more than one-half of the acreage is dug yet, and owing to the scarcity of labor, all will not be able to secure their crops.

Farmers are paying $4 per day for help in the harvest.

Mr. Hathaway, of Rock Creek, was selling cabbage and apples on our streets Saturday.

The school girls, under the management of the lady teachers, enjoyed a hallowe'en party hallo-w'e'en eve.

Subscriptions to the Liberty Loan in Greenwood passed the fifty thousand dollar mark.

Three feet of snow fell during the big snow storm. Some of it melted, but there was enough left.

The Austrians, heavily reinforced by the Germans, have dealt a staggering blow to the Italians, taking many guns and prisoners, and driving them back over the border. Report has it that some of the units played the Russian game of refusing to fight and turned their backs on the enemy, but when the Allies came to their assistance they will make the Teufels retrace their steps.

The course of President Wilson on suffrage, who like a big mastiff pays no attention to the little puppy suffragettes barking at his heels at the White House gates, shows high character. Men of smaller type would be inclined to resent the picketing nonsense of the militants, but the President's policy of bearing makes the work of the would-be martyrs to a good cause look bad.

The misguided misses, who are the most worthy of our sympathy, think by so doing they are doing good. It is the work of their work is doing good, and injury to the cause. If all women were like these defeats at the polls would be desirable.

U. S. soldiers are now in the trenches in Northern France supporting U. S. artillery which is engaging the Germans who will find that Americans can fight without a life course in military training.

President Wilson's reluctance to enter war, and his efforts to maintain an honorable neutrality and, after being forced into war, his clear exposition of the purposes of the war has turned most of the neutral nations to follow his leadership, and to-day he is the recognized champion of democracy. All the world knows that he is not fighting for conquest of territory or to keep his family or the throne, but to preserve the inalienable rights of man and the perpetuation of democracy on earth.

Our soldiers in the trenches will shout with joy when they learn of the great success of the second Liberty Loan.

The people of the towns, villages and farming districts along the N. Y. & Pa. railroad can hardly realize without careful thought the loss to be sustained by the closing of that road.

To Hornell and Canisteo the road has brought traffic from the country south of them for a distance of nearly fifty miles and made those towns its business center. To the farming districts each side of the road it has offered shipping facilities that has enabled them to produce and market profitable crops and produce such as milk, potatoes and hay, that to a large extent would be impossible without a railroad.

It will cause a change in the channels of freight taking it to other places, for instance, at Highport or the northwest part of Troupsburg, Young Hickory and the localities about them that formerly came this way will go to Knoxville with their freight traffic. Whitesville, West Greenwood and the western part of West Union the traffic will go to Andover, and Spring Mills, North Bingham and Saunders will go to Harrison Valley or Mills; and the towns of Ellisburg, Oswego, Millport and the town of Sharon and the country about the southern or southwestern terminus will do their freight in railroad towns that offer the best facilities for business.

All important places are built up of and by the territory back of them. New York owes its supremacy to its facilities as an outlet to the country back of it, and towns take their rank according to those facilities.

Hornell and the towns along the Canisteo have to divide the business north of them with Bath and the towns along the Cohocton but on the south they have a fifty-mile scope of territory if they only avail themselves of it. The proper thing to do is to organize a company and buy the road and run it. It would not pay directly on the stock, but it would pay big in an indirect manner in other business enterprises. To the farmer near him it was worth to him alone more than $1,000,000 last year on potatoes which he would not have attempted to have raised without it, and to every one it would pay an indirect profit.
