It is our agreement to sell you only clothes that you can depend upon to be absolutely correct in style, quality, durability and fitting. It is also our agreement to sell you what must give you an unqualified satisfaction in everything that comes within your expectation of clothes service.

Our advertising promises our guarantees. We are safe in extending this guarantee because it is based upon the quality embodied in Stein-Bloch Smart, Clothcraft Guaranteed and Griffon Clothes.

Suits and Overcoats ..... $15 to $38

The same guarantee embodies our entire line of Boys' and Children's Clothes. The larger boy with knickerbockers and the smaller boy with straight trousers.

Overcoats and Mackinaws are of the sort that need not be laid aside after one season's wear but will be fit for the duty the following season if you so desire. These kind of clothes may cost you a trifle more at the start but so little that it would be a great saving of dollars and cents to you in the long run.

Boys' Suits and Overcoats begin at $4.45.

Italian front was a serious setback for the allied cause. The Germans claim to have taken 180,000 prisoners and many guns. Probably their statement is grossly exaggerated in order to enthrall their troops but the situation is a serious one. The reinforcements of the Italians by French and English may turn the scale, and as the winter may close the door to supplies in the rear of the Teutons the great defeat may result in final victory for the Italians.

It would seem that the proper course to pursue in order to retain railroad facilities between Canistota and Ceres, Pa., would be to organize a company made up of those interested and needing the service, and to sell sufficient stock to raise means to buy the present road. If it is to be junked, it could be purchased at junk prices and probably with the ties about thrown in. If there is to be a road in the future the above mentioned course would be the most economical and easiest. Such an investment would pay indirectly a good return for the outlay to interests and enterprises along the same, as can readily be shown.

It is important to remember that freight rates from points along the line of the present road are the same to New York as from stations on the Erie in the vicinity; for instance a ton of potatoes or other freight costs no more from Greenwood to New York than from Canistota to New York and consequently the cost of hauling on wagons from Greenwood to Canistota would be an added cost for the shipper of at least twenty cents per hundred or two dollars per ton extra, which the shipper has to pay. If he has 1000 bushels of potatoes weighing thirty tons it would cost him sixty dollars to get them to Canistota where they would not be worth a cent more per bushel than in Greenwood providing there was a railroad in Greenwood, and a farmer by paying thirty dollars towards a railroad would save thirty dollars or one-half of sixty dollars on that amount of freight, and many of our farmers have that amount of freight and more counting hay, grain, milk, etc.

Thirty dollars a year would pay the interest on a purchase of $500 stock at 6 per cent interest which a farmer could save twice over on his hauling alone. The same saving would be made by merchants on merchandise by factories on cheese and milk and the same saving over the cost of stock on shipments of lime, plaster, fertilizer, coal and everything that a railroad brings into your towns. Again farmers could raise crops that make heavy freighting that would be impracticable for a long haul on wagons.

One should be able to realize that a loss on the product of farms means a loss on the value of farms and if it took all the product to pay for getting the same to market the land would be valueless.

The effect of a railroad on the values of town property as compared with the values of property in towns and villages where no road is located clearly shows how railroads affect values.

The writer knows of a fine house and a fine lot with a fine barn that would be worth as an investment at least $2,500.00, but located in a back village but good neighborhood which has been sold recently for $800.00. The former owner could have afforded to have taken stock in a railroad to his town and made money indirectly by so doing. Any improvement in towns that increases values pays if the cost of the improvement does not exceed the increased value and the cost of a railroad is but light as compared to the enhanced values of property and the benefits should be appreciated even if they do not pay a direct dividend on their stock.

Greenwood carried for woman suffrage by a majority of 11. Hip Hip.

Our town went no license by a large majority.

The General All Around Cleaner

German statesmen denounce President Wilson as an autocrat, and attempt to favorably compare their government with this on the ground that they "have the king's pledge that the general direct, equal and secret ballot, the most liberal electoral franchise in the world, will now become an institution in Prussia." All very fine and high-sounding, but we might remind our Teuton critics that this same "general, direct, equal and secret ballot" has always prevailed in this country, and that it is solidly and unanimously behind our President. Those German statesmen might enlighten the world by stating to just what extent the masses of that unhappy country have participated in government affairs in the past and do participate at present. As for the future participation of those masses, it may be in a manner not at all to the liking of the Prussian statesman.

As conspicuous examples of German "kultur," we might mention those two million illegitimate German children, brought into the world by decree of the Kaiser. We might also cite recent air attacks on allied hospital bases, on school-houses in England, and the latest peaceworthy attempt to reduce the enemy population by dropping poisoned candy through the allied territory. Yee, German "kultur" is very desirable—not
