About the greatest achievement of the Liberty Loan campaign was its signal victory over General Apathy.

What has become of the old-fashioned woman who used to think she never could get a gown out of less than sixteen yards of cloth?

The average hotel or restaurant boarder is convinced that this thing called "food conservation" can be mighty easily overdone.

Why all this comment on the loss of the Colonel's eye? It should be remembered that sight is not the Colonel's long suit, anyway.

These are the days when the honest dealer is on a nettle for fear the customer will insist on opening the wrong end of the apple barrel.

The most uncomfortable fellow we know of these days is a fellow with a political speech in his system and hunting for an opportunity to unload.

The Sultan of Turkey now wears the Hohenzollern star, indicating, evidently, that he has passed a creditable examination in German "kultur."

To Bernstorff: Seven billion dollar war loan. And you might mention to your master that there are many more billion dollars where these came from.

Shoes which the government furnishes the soldier at a cost of $4.65 a pair, costs the civilian $9 to $10 a pair. There's a reason, and it should interest the government.

Cip. Castro, late dictator of Venezuela, complains that no country wants him. He might try a residence with another ex-dictator now temporarily domiciled in Siberia.

With eighty million dollars subscribed to the new Liberty Loan by the soldier boys, it would seem that the Sammies are willing to back their fighting with their dollars.

It is reported that the people of South Carolina are about to conscript Senator Tillman for another term in the United States Senate. Why not use his own weapon and pitchfork him in?

The answer to the sinking of the transport Anilles in this country was a five billion dollar war loan. Germany is doing her best to bring out all the latent patriotism of the American people.

Kerensky's firm grip on the job of premiering suffered a terrible jolt this week, but his effort to come back leads us to suspect that he had at some time taken lessons in the American school of politics.

Not to be outdone by the women in conserving clothing material, the men will now abolish coats. Well, it isn't fair that women should make all the sacrifices in this direction, even if they are voluntary.

Next time you hear a wise guy about the huge profits coming is coming, remind him there are several million acres of idle land in this old country and some of it is being tickled to death to yield crops to him.

AGAINST THE ENEMY

Just now this is a familiar phrase in American life. Exactly what is intended to be conveyed by the phrase many do not seem to understand. It might be well to study it closely if we are to be loyal citizens as our government expects us to be. First, it is not at all necessary that we actually minister to the enemy's material wants, in order to come under the meaning of the term. There are a thousand and one ways—indirect ways—of aiding an enemy. Our present enemy is fully aware of this fact, and his knowledge is known in his extraordinary activity in our country.

One of the most effective ways to aid a cause is to destroy the morale of its opponents. If dissension and strife can be sown in its ranks, these of themselves will soon bring about its downfall without much effort on the part of its opponent.

Unfortunately, there seems to be current in this country an idea that any course of action is permissible that is not directly prohibited by statute law. Acting on this assumption, opponents of the government claim the right to criticize this government's actions because our constitution guarantees to all freedom of speech. Such people profess to be unable to see wherein they can be accused of disloyalty in exercising a plain right guaranteed by the constitution.

Fortunately, however, this same question has arisen before in this country. In the war between the States President Lincoln had the same difficulty to contend with, and he went directly to the root of the matter and defined for all time the rights of citizens as to freedom of speech in times of national peril. Hear him: "He who dissuades one man from volunteering or induces one soldier to desert, weakens the Union cause as much as he who kills a Union soldier in battle. Yet this dissuasion or inducement may be so conducted as to be no defined crime of which any civil court would take cognizance."

President Lincoln went further and asserted the indisputable right of the government to suppress all action and speech that had for its object, or tended to, the weakening of the morale of the government forces.

Men of America, our sons and brothers will soon be on the firing line, defending the honor of a people that know no master. They will be shedding their blood to make permanent the liberty bequeathed them by other fighters of another age. Can we stand and see them stabbed in the back by professed friends, while they are baring their breasts to our country's foes?

The man who in this emergency opposes his country's course through ignorance, should be reasoned with and enlightened. He who by such action would give aid to the enemy, should be sent to join that enemy—at once. He's a misfit here.

"Me und Got und Mahomet" is the way the Louisville Courier-Journal puts it. Sort of a new trinity, but let us hope not so powerful as the one it seeks to supercede.
