OPINION AGAINST THE GOVERNMENT

Patriotism really extends to every one of us in measuring our personal expenditure and when we look the decision that we would enter this war.

That we would send millions of men into the trenches if necessary, we took upon ourselves the responsibility of supporting them not with money alone, but with personal sacrifices, with the foregoing of our command upon labor for luxury.

If you were looking for a chauffeur and saw a man driving an ambulance and knew that he was going on an errand of mercy, that he was going to someone suffering and perhaps save a life, you would not stop him and say, "I am looking for a chauffeur; I will pay you more than the government is paying you to drive my car."

If you saw a girl working on a gas tank and knew that that tank might save a life you would not tell her you wanted a new hat, to stop the work and make you a hat.

If you saw a man at a lathe turning up a shell that was going to be an instrument for progress of our army you wouldn't say, "Shut off that lathe, take out that shell and repair my automobile, make my boy a bicycle or do some other work that will produce something that will be pleasant for me to have."

That is what we are all doing when we thoughtlessly use our money for nonessentials, so that we are employing men that it must have if we are to play our part in this war. That is the reason that we must bring home to ourselves. We must analyze our personal expenditures, must carry on the lesson to others and must see that the whole country finally grasps it if we are to fight this fight as we should fight it.

OPINION OF A SHEEP MAN ABOUT WAR SAVINGS STAMPS

The state director of War Savings in Nevada has forwarded the following letter to the state director in New York. The writer is a sheep herder, living in Washoe county:

"Dear Sir—A sheepman past the buckaroo camp couple days ago and give us a paper from Reno and I seen in the paper that old U. S. A. would pay four percent confound interest to sell War Stamps to get money to go lick them dam Duchmen now if you got them stamps in Reno write and tell me so. I only bin out to the r. r. once in six months when I went for some tobacco and make a bottle of hooch. We got a Chink cook hasn't been past the horse corral in four year and he got all his checks, and I can get him to buy them stamps. I got hundred sixty and thirty-five more next payday. Now send me the strate dope because Im going get this money for you. Address me Gerlach, Nevada, and you better put it care—I may go back the bucheroo camp prety soon."

Home Craft Week

A Summer Window Covering

Hang Quaker Craft Lace at your windows this spring, it serves the same purpose as your window as does a veil for your face -- it softens and beautifies.

Veil Your Windows

Your window is a picture frame. The view outside is an ever changing picture.

Your problem is to veil the window without obscuring the picture.

That is why Quaker Craft Lace is the ideal window covering. It meets both requirements perfectly.

Everyone Sees Your Windows

Your home is judged by its window coverings.

Every passerby notes your windows and judges your personality from them.

Lace, Quaker Craft Lace, particularly, through its endless assortment of individual yet delicate patterns enables you to truly express yourself.

The Fashionable Window Covering
