Who wants to be known as a hyprocrite in religion? Yet we day to take up her work as a stureel off a yard or two of prayer on Sunday and skin our neighbor to the bone the next day.

Who wants to have the character of his wife, or his daughter, or his sister besmirched by the foul mouth of another? - Yet we speak of this girl with a wink, of that one with a lifted eyebrow, or of the other with a shrug of the shoulder.

Who wants to give freely of his wealth to aid the sick, the lame, the halt, the blind, and the distressed? Yet we spend lavish ly upon our own pleasures and count not the cost of our sprees. Who wants to give a dollar at the church collection, when a quarter will do just as well? Yet we fork over liberally for the prize fight, the ball game and the suggestive show. Oh, yes, we all mean well, and we do well-in our dreams. Piously speaking, it is a great world.
