* Why Not Give Him Something to Wear

It's easy to make a mistake in buying Christmas presents. Most people buy gifts that would please themselves rather than the man who'll receive them.

Try to put yourself in the recipient's place. Think of his tastes-his likes and dislikes-not of your own. Then you will probably conclude to buy him some-

Some Ties, Handsome Shirts, a Pair of Gloves, a Muffler,

Some Hosiery, a Scarf Pin, Sleeve Links, a Good Hat or

Cap, a New Suit or Overcoat or any of the numberless things for men to wear that you will find on display in

And it proves that you bought to please him, not merely to please yourself.

There's a personal quality to a present of this sort that makes it doubly valued. Often a woman questions her ability to select patterns which will suit a man's taste. We'll supply the masculine viewpoint-to advise purchasers
