And prices? Not in sight yet.

A word to the wise is sufficient. To the fool it is one too many.

* * *

A man can always dictate to his typewriter, but seldom to his wife.

* * *

All is quiet in Mexico at this writing, but we make no predictions as to an hour from now.

* * *

Don't worry over the troubles of your neighbor. The modern way is to let him worry over yours.

* * *

The small boy with a hook, a line and a worm is never without joy. It is good for a nibble or two.

* * *

Life holds a barrel of joy for you, if you want it. But it expects you to pull the plug out of the bunghole.

* * *

The young man with a multitude of ideas often finds that his multitude has become nothing but a jumble.

* * *

A girl may not enthuse much over the man, but it's no trouble at all to go into raptures over the engagement ring.

* * *

It is no longer considered hazardous to buy a pig in a poke. If the poke is made of cotton it is more valuable than the pig.

* * *

You can call some people hard names without insulting them, tho you may give deadly offense. The truth is never an insult.

* * *

It's no disgrace for a brave man to admit that he has been licked by a better man. Only the craven tries to bluff it out afterwards.

* * *

Even the lowly but useful angle-worm has not escaped the high cost craze. Twenty-five cents a dozen is a modest price at some fishing resorts.

* * *

We'd hate to think that the amount of hair a man possesses is an index to the quality of his courage. What would we say of our baldheads?

* * *

An inquirer in a city paper wants to know if it is legal for a young man of thirty to adopt a young woman of twenty-five. It is—with a wedding ring.

* * *

Those alluring curves of the feminine form are rapidly ceasing to be attractive. The masculine mind soon loses interest in anything that becomes common.

* * *

Trouble with these political planks is that there is too much politics and too many planks. One can't take the time to read them and still earn three meals a day.

* * *

Some one ought to tell Congress the war is over. It's a burning shame to keep our dear senators and congressmen in ignorance of this fact all of these months.

* * *

It is distressing to think that our rich men have to go to Europe to get a "drink" and equally distressing to think that many Europeans have to come here to get something to eat.

SPORTS, OR GOATS?

ARE we American people sports, or are we just plain goats?

European countries owe the United States ten billions of dollars, loaned to them during the war against Germany.

This money will soon be due, and it is intimated that the allies either can not or will not pay—they intimate the former, but we suspect the latter.

Our friends across the water, it seems, do not want to pay us until after they have collected the money from Germany. And when they do get the money from Germany it is even possible that they will suddenly discover some more urgent and pressing need for it.

Makes a fellow feel fine, doesn't it? Quite sporty, or goaty, whichever term pleases you.

Europe tells the United States it is short of sugar—it must have sugar.

We, too, are short—very short—but we send it to them, hundreds of millions of pounds.

Of course that shoves up the price of what little we are able to buy ourselves. But that doesn't matter to us sports, or goats. We just revel in coughing up lively for the benefit of our dear friends across the water.

Why should we ask Europe to pay us the paltry ten billions of dollars they owe us? Would that be sporty, or goaty?

Why should we tell them they can't have our sugar, because we haven't enough ourselves for our canning, and our tables? Would a sport, or a goat, be so ungenerous?

Why not give them everything they want, and thank them for taking it? Wouldn't that be quite sporty, or tremendously goaty?

Why not be genuine sports, or wholehearted goats, while we are about it?

For isn't it quite jolly to be a sport, or supremely comforting to be a goat?

You know!

JAIL THE OFFENDERS

EXPERTS are telling us that the country will be short of coal this winter, because the mining companies can not get freight cars enough for shipping the coal to the distributing points.

Go into any big railroad yard in the country and you will see thousands and thousands of cars standing on side tracks, waiting to be unloaded. In numerous cases they have been standing many days, possibly weeks, yet no apparent attempt is being made to unload them. Even in small towns you will find cars standing day after day.

This condition is one great cause for the shortage in rail transportation. It is the reason why the mines are not putting more coal on the market. It is the reason why many people will freeze next winter if coal is not moved more rapidly.

It would be an easy matter to correct this disquieting condition of affairs.

The government could take one great railroad center as an example.

It could send secret service operatives to that city to check up on the idle cars, and the cause for such idleness. An explanation could be demanded of the railroad company.

If the company could not give a legitimate reason, the officials should be punished—jailed if possible.

If not the fault of the company, and the consignee is responsible, he should be punished—jailed if possible.

And if government officials whose duty it is to prosecute such offenders show an inclination to delay or evade the issue because some "prominent people" are involved, the president should remove them from office and otherwise punish them—jail the shirking prosecutors, if possible.

One such shakeup as an example would be sufficient. Cars would begin to move everywhere, and would keep on moving.

And the people would keep warm next winter—which is doubtful under present conditions.

WHY NOT THIS TOWN?

IN all probability Henry Ford has advanced the most practical idea yet for keeping young men on the farms.

Henry suggests that we build factories thruout the farming sections, give these young men employment during the winter months when there is no farm work to be done, and shut them down in the summer when the men are needed on the farms.

It is a sane, sensible and eminently practical suggestion. It is one easy of attainment.

It could be done in this community as well as any other place.

We have the brains necessary to organize, operate and market the products of such a factory. We have the capital required for such a purpose.

What more can we ask?

Nothing—except for our enterprising farmers and townsmen to get together, take the bit in their teeth, and go ahead.

Are we equal to the occasion?

WILL HE PLAY THE MAN?

THE king of Greece contracted a morganatic marriage with a charming lady not of the royal circle. His army officers and his government officials are much distressed thereat, and are endeavoring to induce the king to cast her off—toss her into the discard—and marry some one of the blood royal.

If the young king is weak he will put a good wife behind him and cling to his tinsel crown. If he is half a man he will remain true to the woman he has married.

But kings as a rule are not quite half man, and the ultimate decision of young Alexander is problematical.

The old world does not possess a single crown that could compensate for the loss of the love and respect of a good woman.

Some day kings will have brains instead of vanity, or there will be no more kings.

RULE BY PRIDE

THINK a little and you will call to mind some young lady whose sweetness of disposition is a marvel to her friends.

Part of that disposition is hereditary, but much of it is the result of environment and early training.

Some mothers have a rare talent in the training of children. They do not rule by threats and spanks, but from early childhood the pride of the little one is brought to the fore.

As early as it can understand, it is taught to be gentle and sweet, and to take pride in excelling in those womanly qualitities which appeal so strongly to the human race.

As a child is taught in its infancy, so will it invariably be in maturity.

If all mothers would bear this fact constantly in mind, there would be more of that innate sweetness which is so charming in he female sex, and which appeals so strongly to manhood in all stations of life.

IT WOULD HELP

A FORUM for the interchange of ideas would be a good thing for this town.

We have many people whose brains are constantly on the alert, who see daily the weak spots in our local life, and who have practical solutions in mind for their improvement.

These people might be brought together, ideas publicly exchanged, and the best plans adopted and put into execution.

There is always some condition in this town that needs improvement, and there is always some one in this town who has a simple and practical method of doing it.

Why drift with the tide when smooth sailing is better?

We have touched on this subject before in our columns. We repeat it now with emphasis.

It was really unkind of our office devil to suggest that some men prefer to go to hell because they know they can't get a drink in heaven.

It's quite sporty to read the base ball news each day, but it would be even more sportsmanlike to pull off a game ourselves once in a while.

* * *

The [illegible] of summer are [illegible] passingly great, especially when a bull mosquito fastens itself on the back of your neck and refuses to let go.

* * *

We have reconsidered our hard and fast rule of not publishing the effusions of local poets. We now make a modest charge of a dollar a line, cash up and no discount.

Agrigraphs

A tireless worker is the tile drain. Day and night, while the ground is wet, it keeps at its job and asks no pay nor feed.

* * *

"No," said a shrewd old farmer, "I don't know as noise or talking at milking time reduces the flow of milk—but it may make the job last longer!"

* * *

One way to make country life more attractive is to beautify the farm both indoors and out. It's the outdoors we think most about in summer; flowers and shrubs help.

* * *

The boy or girl who is not a member of a junior project club is likely to be lonesome. Are your boys and girls missing out on fun and instruction to which they are entitled?

* * *

Why not put in a supply of butter for next season? A copy of Extension Bulletin 33, on "Making and Storing Butter for Home Use" is yours for the asking. The State College at Ithaca, N. Y., will send it.

* * *

Sings a nameless poet: "The old hen sat in a leafless tree and said, 'Nobody cares for me. My food is what I find about, I hunt for it till I'm frazzled out. My owner says I do not pay, and that I ought to sing and lay. I wish he had to sit out here and live on pickin's all the year. I'll bet a half a cent, by jing, he wouldn't lay from now till spring.'"

Homespun Yarn

Do you feel you need a bracer?
Milk's a drink that needs no "chaser."

* * *

Don't throw away the tender tops from the beets. Beet greens are good.

* * *

Another reason why the pressure cooker is a money saver: By its use cheaper foods may be made appetizing.

* * *

Yes, paint does cost more than it used to. But a little will go a long way in sprucing up that dingy kitchen.

* * *

The bargain counter is a bargain only for those who are good judges of values; others had better beware of its enticements.

* * *

Maybe neither the milk nor the milkman is to blame for the sour milk. Perhaps you left the bottle standing in the sun, instead of putting it in the ice box immediately.

* * *

One kind of economy which is likely not to pay is using last year's jar rubbers. The cost of new ones is small, compared with the value of a few cans of spoiled fruit or vegetables.

* * *

Chocolate cake made with sour milk and soda is usually softer and darker in color than that made with sweet milk and baking poder. Cocoa should be substituted for chocolate by weight instead of by measure.

THE STORE OF QUALITY

There's a "Want Ad Audience" Waiting For Your Message!

Each classification of the Want Ads has its own special readers—people to whom, on that particular day, the ads under that classification have especial interest.

The people who are looking for work read nothing else in the paper with half of the interest and attention that they give to the "Help Wanted" ads.

The people who want to find places in which to live turn eagerly to the "For Rent" classification, and welcome the appearance of an ad that looks to be "worth investigating."

The people who are about ready to stop paying rent read the real estate ads with the purpose of finding the hoped-for home.

The employer, whose need of "help" is urgent, turns to the "Situation Wanted,' ads in the hope that the worker he needs has advertised.

With every classification it is the same. There is a changing "audience" every day, but a sure-to-be-interested one. Thus, when CLASSIFIED, your message goes DIRECTLY to all of the people in the city who, on that day, have any interest in that sort of message!

Does not that fact give you A REAL OPPORTUNITY?

The driver did not stop his car which so disgusted Mr. Stewart that he followed him to Hornell and reported the case. The driver was summoned to police headquarters and settled to the amount of $75.

—A card received this week, at the News office, from Rev. V. L. Eggleston, mailed June 25th, informs us that he had a "fine trip of eight days, wonderful sights everywhere, crossed the Isthmus first night after arrival. At Panama now." The card has a fine map of the canal and canal zone, showing the length of canal to be 40 miles area of canal zone 448 square miles, estimated total cost $375,000,000.

—Cherries are ripening and are a good crop in this section.

—Jasper has a chapter of the Order of Eastern Star, organized with a good membership, July 7th.

—Plans are being perfected for the annual I. O. O. F. picnic to be held at the park, Wednesday, July 21st. It was found advisable this year to change from July 4th, the established time for it, to this later date. Keep it in mind for an I. O. O. F. picnic always spells a grand good time.

—Last Sunday fourteen friends and relatives of Mr. Timothy Baker helped him pass his 84th birthday, at his home, 1½ miles west of Andover, on the Wellsville road. In the evening six others came to bring a ray of sunshine to this aged resident. Mr. Baker is able to do his own work on his place, keeping two cows and a horse.

—As a result of prohibition many changes are being made in the hotels of New York. The large wine cellars at the Waldorf Astoria are now used as a repair shop for silver-ware. The Vanderbilt has converted its wine cellar into an oyster bar. The Hotel Claridge has a carpenter shop in what was formerly their wine cellar.

—Mayor J. A. Wetherby, of Wellsville, was picked up by a state police, in Olean, last Saturday, for turning his auto around in the street instead of going to a street intersection and around the silent policeman. Mayor Wetherby paid the fine at police court and now it is claimed that is one law that will be enforced in Wellsville after this. So not only watch your steps but your car as well when you visit the next town.

SMITH REUNION

On July 5, 1920 the descendents of Philemon and Mahala Smith held their annual reunion at the home of Wm. W. Pingrey. Seventy were present, representing four states.

CHILDREN'S DAY AT PRESBYTERIAN CHURCH

Lack of space prohibited mention last week of the Children's Day exercises held at the Presbyterian Church, Sunday evening, June 20th. E. D. Baker, superintendent of the Sunday School, presided and the songs, recitations and class exercises by the pupils were well delivered and entertaining. Aside from the songs in which the congregation joined special music was given by Mrs. Baker at the pipe organ, Mrs. Bundy, piano; Harold Hardy, violin, and Claire Backus, cornet. The decorations were beautiful and among them were a quantity of flowers sent the pastor by E. P. Rogers from Texas for this occasion. After the service these flowers were distributed among those present.

BURDICK REUNION

The twelfth reunion of the Burdick family was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Burdick, in East Valley, June 30th. The day was ideal, the crowd a happy one. There were over ninety persons present. A most excellent dinner was served and for one blissful hour no reference was made to "H. C. of L." It was ignored. The afternoon passed happily by, each and all seemed to thoroly enjoy themselves. The officers elected for 1921 were:

President, C. C. Burdick
Secretary, Ruth Baker
Eentertainment Com: W. W. Sheldon, Milo Palmer, Leroy Burdick.

An invitation was extended by Mr. and Mrs. Lynn Langworthy to meet with them at their home in Lanphear Valley, the last Wednesday in June, 1921.
