a few questions, usually put and categorically answered, discovered the whole conspiracy between Mrs. Curtis, her children, and John Devon.

John Pendlehaven, whose anger had been steadily building, suddenly stepped forward and brushed his brother aside.

"I'll take charge of this now, Paul," he stated. "You're too dead easy. Here's where you treacherous snakes go to jail," he included Uriah and the Curtises in a sweep of his hand. "Every one of you!" He turned savagely upon Reginald. "You little pup," he charged swiftly, "you tried to poison Paul, didn't you?" He crossed to his side and towered over him with upraised fist. "Own up, d—n you. Didn't you?"

Reginald covered, slipped out of his chair and attempted to shield himself in Mrs. Curtis' arms, who leaned protectively over him.

"I was drunk," he excused himself, "and I thought," he whimpered to his mother, "I thought you wanted me to."

Then Edith projected herself into the excitement again. She glanced at Uriah, her eyes melting with tenderness, arose and stood looking at the Pendlehaven brothers.

"Mr. Paul," she said in a low voice, "don't you remember me?"

Paul looked her over with no sign of recognition, and his brother turned away from Reginald to observe this new development.

"No," said Paul, and he shook his head.

"Never mind! That don't matter!" was the reply, "but I'll make a dicker with you. You give me my man for keeps, and I'll give you your girl, Caroline. I'm Edith Minto!"

You could have heard a pin drop, so deep was the silence. All were looking at the beggar woman, facing Paul Pendlehaven, who was rising unsteadily.

"Give me my man," she repeated. "Don't send 'im to jail, and I'll give you your girl."

"You Little Pup, You Tried to Poison Paul, Didn't You?"

that his brother went to him and flung an arm across his shoulders.

"Are you lying?" he thundered at Edith. "It is— Sit down, Paul. Let me—"

"Where's my baby?" quavered Paul Pendlehaven.

"Does my Uriah go free, scot-free?" questioned Mrs. Devon.

"Yes, yes," consented both brothers at the same time.

Tony had dropped to the floor. Now that little Caroline had been found, she could no longer be a Pendlehaven daughter. Edith went to her and knelt beside her.

"Here she is, sir," she said in husky tones, lifting a tearful face to the man, "and you couldn't have a finer girl in the world. I ain't goin' to say for you to forgive me, sir, but you've had her over two years! Now, gimme Uriah, and we'll go!"

Tony threw her arms around Edith's neck. What a change five minutes and a few words had made! She seemed to have taken on a new dignity as, with shining eyes, she said to Paul Pendlehaven:

"Father, darling, whatever it was that separated us, I want, oh, how I want to do something for the only mother I've ever known."

Of course, Doctor Paul consented; he even did more. He got a promise from the confused Uriah that he'd turn his back on the old days and old ways, and begin again with such aid as the Pendlehavens would give him.

While Doctor Paul was settling the rates of the Devons, John Pendlehaven had been sitting up the Curtises family. They were grouped together, clinging to each other.

"Edith," he ejaculated. "I reckon you did a good job when you stopped Devon with a bullet last night. As for you, Sarah, you and your children aren't safe to have in the house. Hup!" He stretched forth his hand and counted the five thousand dollars to her. "Here's your money. Now they go, and take Reggie and Katherine with you."

Mrs. Curtis was so bitterly overcome that she could do nothing but sob, but Katherine took the bills from the doctor's hand and turned to her mother.

"Come on, Reg," she muttered. "Help me get her out of this. It's better so." She picked her mother up and carried her to the door. "Quit that crying, and come in."

and then, as if by magic, she was there. "Ain't that right?"

Devon straightened up from his chair and gazed sharply at the man who said, "That we be," he agreed, "and I'll try to show it."

That evening when Founbel and Phillis were alone together, the young man said cheekily, "You don't for a moment imagine I ever believed you did that thing, darling? I went away because I thought you didn't love me any more, that you never saw loved me. You don't think—any other way?"

"No, dear," she answered, gently. "No, of course not!"

The boy pressed her to him, and as they whispered so low, he could hear anything, there isn't another word to record, except that Founbel Pendlehaven had anything the world could give one little girl.

Western New York shipping points down 5c, closing a round 60c. Boxed apples 40c, barrel apples 50c, old cabbage 21c.

Hay—Receipts improving; top grades meeting with ready sale in nearly all markets. Country demand increasing; light. Roads poor condition. Light receipts clover and alfalfa, Kansas City, Chicago market in position to absorb heavier offerings of alfalfa and prairie, Omaha reports prairie in good request; receipts light. No accumulations in evidence, but Northeastern markets well supplied. Quote No1 Timothy $20, Kansas City, $26 Chicago, $20 Minneapolis, $23 Cincinnati. No2 Timothy, $22 Cincinnati, $15 Kansas City, $22 Chicago, $17 Minneapolis. No1 alfalfa $20.50 Kansas City, $26 Cincinnati. No1 clover mix d. $21 Chicago $18 Cincinnati. $17 Kansas City, $20.50 Cincinnati. No1 prairie, $15 Minneapolis, $19 Chicago, $14.50 Kansas City.

FEED—Market generally easier, Linsseed meal strong but price unchanged. Corn feeds unchanged. Hottentot feed quoted about 50 percent lower in many markets. Cotton seed meal weaker. Beet pulp and alfalfa meal in poor request. April offerings bran offered 75c under March shipment. April middlings quoted 75c over March shipment. Season bran offered at around $22 Minneapolis. Linsseed meal may be obtained from jobbers for April and May shipments at below mill prices. Production, most feeds while not heavy is ample; demand remains below normal. Transportation conditions good. Quoted bran $23, middlings $22, Minneapolis, Linsseed meal $41 Buffalo $40.50 Minneapolis, $43.50 Chicago. 36 per cent cottonseed meal $25 Memphis. White home feed $23 St. Louis. No1 alfalfa meal $13.50 Kansas City. Gluten feed $37 Chicago. Beet pulp quoted $4 lower in New England at $34 Boston rate points.

LIVESTOCK and MEATS—The general trend of Chicago Livestock prices the past week was upward. Hogs advanced 550 to 85c; fat lamb 550 to 75c; yearling 25c to $1. per 100 pounds. On the whole cattle prices were not materially changed. Feeder steers up to 25c; heifers down 25 to 40c. March 14—Chicago prices: Hogs bulk of sales $16.10 to $11.35; medium and good beef steers $8.40 to $10.15; butcher cows and heifers $5 to $9.50; feeder steers $7.75 to $9.75; light and medium weight veal calves $9.50 to $12.25; fat lambs $8.50 to $10.75; feeding lambs $7.25 to $9.60; yearlings $7.50 to $9; fat cows $5 to $8.50.

Wholesale prices from most sources advanced moderately in most instances. Fat calves led with an advance of $1.00 to $1.25. Beet pulp $1.25, oat and corn $1.25, other feeds being $1 lower, others

$1 higher. Mutton ranged steady to $1 lower. March 14, prices good grade meats: Beef $18 to $19; veal $19 to $24; lamb $18 to $23; mutton $19 to $16; light pork loins $25 to $28; heavy loins $19 to $23.

GRAIN: There was a considerable drop in prices the past week caused by favorable crop reports, much needed rains in Southwest, weakness in stock market, and general economic conditions. The only important factor was export business in evidence at times. On the 14th there was an early advance up to 3c as result of removal of hedges against between 2,000,000 and 3,000,000 bushels wheat sold over night to British Commission, Italy, France, Spain and Holland but on-upture there was heavy selling by commission houses and brokers and prices dropped 4c below the opening. In Chicago cash market No. 3 mixed corn 6 1/2c under Chicago May No. 3 Yellow 5 1/2c-6 1/2c under. For the week Chicago May wheat down 1 1/2c at $1.45 1/2, May corn 3c at 68c. Minneapolis May wheat down 14c at $1.39, Kansas City, May 13 1/2c at $1.39 1/2, Winnipeg May 9c at $1.78 1/2. Chicago March wheat $1.55 1/4. Minneapolis flour sales continue fair.

DAIRY PRODUCTS: Butter markets weak and unsettled, until the 12th when better feeling developed in Eastern markets. Buyers short and should recovery prove more than temporary heavy purchasing expected. Increased domestic production and heavy Danish imports are factors in future developments. Danish shipment totaling more than 1,230,000 pounds arrived during week; other large shipments to come. New Zealand butter stored in San Francisco also being shipped East. Closing prices, 92 score: New York 47 1/2c; Philadelphia 48c; Boston 47 1/2c; Chicago 46c.

Cheese markets steady to firm throughout week. Wholesale business mostly small orders, but good cumulative demand has kept trading fairly active. The lenth demand has been lighter than expected, but partly to plentiful supply and lower priced fresh eggs. Eastern cheese has continued to reach Western markets and still having some depressing effect there which in turn has helped to strengthen Eastern markets. The new week's business opens to-day with prices at Plymouth, Wisconsin Cheese Exchange showing reductions of from 1-2c according to styles: Twins 24c; Daisies 28c; D. Daisies 24 1/4; Longhorns 25c; Young Americans 24c.

AFTER THREE YEARS

Andover—Testimony Remains Unshaken

Time is the best test of truth. Here is an Andover story that has stood the test of time. It is a story with a point which will come straight home to many of us.

Mrs. Samuel Coats, retired farmer, Andover, says: "I was all run down and suffered from kidney trouble. Often my back pained me so badly in the morning that I couldn't take any comfort until I got out of bed. Then when I got up my back was, so lame that it made me feel miserable. I was so nervous I could fly and I suffered from severe headaches. Doan's Kidney Pills were recommended to me and three boxes from the Sanguine Drug Co. gave me great relief." (Statement given October 15, 1916.)

On August 8, 1919, Mrs. Coats said: "I have felt well and strong and my kidneys have been in a good condition ever since Doan's Kidney Pills cured me of kidney trouble some time ago. Doan's are certainly a reliable kidney and bladder medicine and I most heartily recommend them."

Moderate Prices Rule
In SUIT DEPARTMENT

Quite often we are told by diligent customers that ours is the most interesting and reasonably priced stock of Suits they have seen anywhere this season. We believe this to be the result of great care in selection of our Suits and our usual low cash price policy. For instance, here are

All Wool Jersey Suits
In a great variety of styles and colors, priced at $13.85 and $16.85. What could be more practical for every day wear than one of these? And they are so good looking, too!

All Wool Serge Suits made up in most attractive styles, priced from $21.85 to $38.50.

Fine Quality Tropic Suits
all beautifully tailored in a wide range of styles, priced from $31.50 to $69.50. We have an especially nice line at $38.50 of very fine tribotone.

Modish Suits for Stout Women
We have taken unusual pains this spring to select a good line of stout sizes. About twenty Suits on our racks in sizes 43 to 55. If you think you are too stout to be fitted with a ready-made suit, come in. We have a surprise for you.
