SPRAYING REDUCES POTATO CROP COSTS

Demonstrations Show It Requires Less Labor and Less Money to Grow Spuds in This Way

Potato spraying demonstrations in 77 fields in twelve counties of New York during the last two years showed that it requires less labor and less money to grow a bushel of potatoes from sprayed than from unsprayed. They showed that good business policy requires the potato grower to combat diseases.

But spraying alone will not produce potatoes, according to the specialists at the State College at Ithaca. Good seed, good culture, and proper spraying equipment are also necessary.

A fine misty spray in large enough quantities to cover the vines thoroughly is essential. Good spraying can be done with a knapsack sprayer or with a barrel outfit, but if one has five acres or more of potatoes, it is more practical, according to the specialists, to use a traction sprayer capable of delivering a high pressure, or better still, to use a power sprayer. With such machines one can handle effectively 70 to 80 acres of potatoes.

Dusting Also Used
Dusting for the control of blight has also come into prominence recently. A mixture of finely ground copper sulphate and hydrated lime has, in experiments on Long Island, given yields equal to potatoes sprayed with liquid Bordeaux mixture, and both gave greatly increased yields over unsprayed check areas. A potato grower at East Corinth, Vermont, has also used this dust mixture with success.

Growers who have not sprayed and whose fields are liable to blight are advised by the college not to await results, but to begin spraying or dusting at once. A good spraying machine has been known to pay for itself in a single year.

Agriographs

A word of warning, Garden Man, With nail or hose or sprinkling can; Pour liberal drink on garden land Or else, I pray you, stay your hand For if you only wet the top The thirsty roots get scarce a drop And, struggling upward after water, By hoe or drouth are doomed to slaughter.

Catch 'em young and treat 'em rough! Down the weeds, that's the stuff!

Uncle Ah says: "One trouble with living in New York City is that there's so few places where you can pitch horse-shoes."

Eggs that are gathered often, kept clean and cool, and are candled and graded bring better prices at the market than the "just eggs" kind.

The agricultural population produces the bravest men, valiant soldiers, and a class of citizens the least given to all to evil designs. — Cato.

Name your farm and place a well-painted sign up over the gate. Then use the name on every occasion. That's one of the best ways of creating a reputation for your produce.

Building up soil fertility takes time. Have you a copy of "A Program of Soil Improvement for New York State?" The Agricultural College at Ithaca will send a copy if you ask for E. 15.

Good reading these hot days: "The Farm Ice Supply." Maybe it will give you information which will help you persuade the men folks that your farm can have an ice-house. Ask the State College at Ithaca for F. 135.

GOOD SUMMER CARE OF HENS PAYS WELL

If Neglected, Fruits Will Be Decreased — Less Grain Needed Under Range Conditions — Feed Mash From Hoppers

It is poor economy to neglect the hens during the rush of summer work, poultrymen who have been most successful declare. They point out that the care which the flock gets in the summer will determine to a large extent the profits to be realized.

Under range conditions and with production decreasing, however, it will be necessary to reduce the amount of scratch grain and to feed the mash from hoppers, according to the poultry department of the State College of Agriculture at Cornell University. If this is not done, the birds will consume too much grain and not enough mash. Mash consumption must be encouraged to get the eggs.

The following table showing the approximate amounts of grain to feed 100 hens each day in different months gives some idea of the extent of the reduction; the figures are quarts: November, morning 2, evening 6; December, morning 2, evening 6; January, morning 2, evening 6; February, morning 2, evening 6; March, morning 2, evening 6; April, morning 2, evening 5; May, morning 2, evening 5; June, morning 1 1/2, evening 4 1/2; July, morning 1 1/2, evening 4 1/2; August, morning 1, evening 3; September, morning 1, evening 3; October, morning 1, evening 3.

The following are the Cornell grain and mash formulas: Grain: 500 pounds cracked corn, 200 pounds barley, 200 pounds wheat, 100 pounds heavy oats. Mash: 100 pounds wheat bran, 100 pounds wheat middlings, 100 pounds cornmeal, 100 pounds ground oats or ground barley, 100 pounds meat scrap, 3 pounds salt.

Another way of utilizing old sheets is to make them into simple slip-over bags in which to store the rolled-up winter blankets.

EGGS FRIED ON CAPITOL STEPS

Washington, June 26. — "You win!" gasped Representative Joseph C. Pingrey, of Oklahoma, as he mopped his brow and lost a wager to Congressman John W. Langley, of Kentucky.

Langley bet that it was hot enough yesterday to fry eggs on the steps of the Capitol.

Pingrey said it couldn't be done. Langley secured a pair of eggs from the House restaurant and started his culinary task. The frying was slow, but when Langley flipped the eggs over and spoiled a "sunny side-up," Pingrey admitted he had lost.

Penalty May Be Imposed if You Don't Answer Census Bureau Questions

The Census Bureau is now in the midst of an investigation to ascertain the amount of the encumbrances on homes. This inquiry is made in compliance with the requirements of the Act of Congress approved March 3, 1919. It is desired to show the total number of homes in each city that are rented, the number that are owned free of mortgage, the number that are subject to mortgage indebtedness and the amount of such indebtedness. Schedules of inquiry calling for this information have been sent to all of the persons reported in Andover as owning homes subject to mortgage, but unfortunately, a large number of the citizens have not replied to the official request. We imagine this indifference on their part is due to the fact that they do not appreciate the importance of the statistics.

SERGEANT F. J. HILLS

Friendship, June 27. — Funeral services for Sergeant Farmer Judge Hills were held at the M. E. Church, on Sunday-morning, at 10 o'clock. The Rev. W. B. Ballard, pastor, preached, American Legion Post 655, with the Cuba Cornet Band, attended the funeral in a body and acted as a military escort at the church and at the grave in Mount Hope. At the cemetery Mr. Ballard offered prayer and gave the benediction after which Commander Pettit took charge of the services for the legion.

The firing squad fired three volleys as a salute to the departed comrade. Sergeant Bugler F. V. Jones sounded "Taps." Sergeant Hills entered the service in September, 1917, and was in the 414th Telegraph Battalion. He died at Commeny-Meuce, France, on February 11, 1919, of bronchial pneumonia. Hills was the oldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur N. Hills who, with five brothers and two sisters, survive him. He was 24 years old. Hills was one of the two soldier dead from Friendship.

LECTURE WELL ATTENDED

Mrs. Milo Acker, of Hornell, representing the State Board of Health, addressed the ladies of the village on social hygiene, at the Library, Tuesday evening. Mrs. Acker had her subject well in hand, and has the ability of presenting the plain facts regarding the condition of affairs, now existing, in a very gracious manner. Her address contained many helpful suggestions along her line of work.
