PULPWOOD SITUATION CONCERNS THE FARMER

Time is Coming When Farm Woodlot May Advantageously Supply Material for Paper Making

With recent investigation indicating that the pulp and paper industry of New York is finding only half its supply of raw material within the state, the foresters of the College of Agriculture at Ithaca point out that the time is rapidly approaching when the farm woodlot as a source of pulpwood may well be considered.

At present about 500,000 cords of pulpwood a year come from Canada. For some time the industry has been threatened with the possibility of a complete embargo upon Canadian pulpwood. Should this occur, it will mean that some mills will have to move to the source of raw material, or find other materials on this side of the line, say the foresters.

A careful estimate of the available supplies on privately owned land within the Adirondack region reveals only a sufficient quantity to maintain the present cut for a period of about fifteen years. This condition will make necessary certain changes within the industry, all of which are of more or less vital importance to a large number of farm woodland owners in the state.

Freight Rates Have Bearing. There is within the Catskill and southwestern counties a large stand of material suitable for pulpwood which is now largely unavailable because of freight rates. Undoubtedly there will come an adjustment of freight rates, labor costs of preparing pulpwood, and the price pair for it which will eventually make much of this material available to the mills.

The mills of New York are paying more for their raw material than are many in other parts of the country, and, incidentally, those paying the highest prices are the mills at Niagara Falls. During 1920 the average price paid for pulpwood f. o. b. the pulp and paper mills of the country was $19.03 a cord. In contrast to this New York State mills report that the price which they paid for peeled spruce f. o. b. the mills ranged from $20.50 to $33.00 per cord.

Cause of Situation. The present situation has been brought about, the foresters say, not so much by an overdevelopment of industry, as by an underdevelopment of existing resources. In many cases this has been the fault of the pulp mill owners for not considering their future business as well as their immediate profits.

With such a condition facing one of the principal industries of the state, there can be no stronger argument in favor of forest planting upon non-agricultural land," concludes the statement.

MADE OF SOUR MILK: GOOD? YES INDEED!

Warm weather and a forgetful iceman are likely to leave even the most careful housewife with more sour milk on hand than can be taken care of by her ordinary sour-milk recipes. When that time comes the following recipe, vouchsafed for by the home economics workers at the State College at Ithaca, N. Y., may prove helpful.

Graham Pudding: 1 cup molasses, 1/4 cup fat, 1 egg, beaten, 1 1/2 cups sour milk, 1 cup graham flour, 1/2 cup white flour, 2-3 cup raisins, 1 teaspoon soda, 2 teaspoons cinnamon, 1/2 teaspoon cloves, 1/2 teaspoon nutmeg. Combine the ingredients in the order given, dredging the raisins with flour. Turn the mixture into a greased mold, and steam it for 2 1/2 hours. Serve the pudding with foamy sauce, made as follows:

Foamy Sauce. The white of 1 egg, 1/2 cup sugar or maple sirup, 1-3 cup boiling milk, 1 teaspoon lemon juice. Beat the white of the egg until it is foamy, but not dry. Add the sweetening gradually, and beat the mixture until it is creamy. Add the boiling milk and the lemon juice. Serve the sauce at once.

DON'T PARK PUMPKINS WITH THE ROOT CROPS

Don't park your pumpkins in the same storage room with your root crops, is the advice of the vegetable men at the State College of Agriculture. Pumpkins and their cousins, the squashes, require a dry, well-ventilated place with a temperature around 50 degree Fahrenheit, but better above than below. Root crops need lower temperatures and a rather moist atmosphere. Squashes and pumpkins should first be cured by exposure to a rather high temperature. They should be suspended above the kitchen stove or in some other warm place for a few days and then placed on shelves in a room with the conditions suggested above. They should not touch each other on the shelves.

This fall is a good time to plant shrubs and perennial plants. Larkspur is good for a blue background. To impoverish and embitter the farmer is to dry up and contaminate the vital sources of the nation. Bernard Basch.

Persons who are interested in flowers, and especially those who like the old-fashioned hardy perennials, might be interested in the Cornell bulletin "Autumn in the Flower Garden." A postcard request to the College of Agriculture at Ithaca, asking for F. 128, will bring it.
