

A Man Isn't Conscious of His Clothes

OTHER PEOPLE ARE —

The average man — the man you meet every day — on the street, in the office, in the theatre, isn't conscious of his clothes.

True, when he comes to buy, he wants his money's worth. He wants style; he wants enduring fabrics. But it wouldn't be hard to find him — if a store wanted to.

But what a man doesn't see — other people do. What he doesn't think about — other people do.

YOU DON'T HAVE TO DEPEND ON YOUR KNOWLEDGE OF CLOTHES VALUE HERE

WE'VE TAKEN CARE OF THAT FOR YOU!

"SMALL TALK" IS IMPORTANT

Well Worth Cultivating by Those to Whom Its Possession Has Been Denied.

The man who is a failure at small talk never quite hears what the girl he is talking to has to say. He is trying to think what he is going to say next, so of course he cannot fail to misunderstand what the girl he is talking to says. He is heedless, abstracted, worried and has a way of listening to the conversation of others rather than to those at hand.

The girl whom men regard as a good talker is always ready with a laugh, and the girl who laughs well is always popular. One can excuse the girl who giggles if she giggles in a way that makes others merry and seems to tell those with whom she talks that they are entertaining her immensely, that their stories are deliciously funny—though they may be very stupid—and that on the whole she is enjoying herself and her companions enormously.

"How should a man start the conversation at a dance?" is a frequent query. There are 1,000 ways and almost any way is a good way providing it is prompt and whole minutes of agonizing silence do not slip before anything is said. Little personal remarks that are not impertinent are sure to win a girl's attention.

"I was impatient for this dance," says the popular man to the girl dressed in old rose, whom he has met for the first time that night, "because I always find that I get along famously with girls that wear pink. I can tell a lot about a girl by the colors she likes to wear."

The man who never seems to know what to say to a woman would say something like this: "I knew I had this dance with a girl in pink, but there are so many girls in pink here, and they all look alike to me so I was afraid I would ask the wrong girl."

MANY USES FOR GIANT KELP

Among Others, Sea Plant Lends Itself Excellently to the Making of "Hootch."

The aboriginal natives of British Columbia and Alaska can always get a suitable worm for distilling by picking it out of the sea. It is furnished by the hollow stem of the giant kelp, and serves excellently for the making of "hootch" from a mixture of molasses and graham flour. The giant kelp is anchored to the rocky bottom by a root-like holdfast, from which springs a stem that is sometimes 100 feet long. This stem is hollow for the upper half of its length, and terminates in a big bladder-like bulb from which, as it floats on the surface, fronds 50 feet long branch out. The plant grows from spores and is an annual. One variety is called "sea onion's cabbage," and is very plentiful in the region of Puget sound. Another, commonly known as "sea pumpkin," flourishes nearly as far south as San Diego bay. Bulbs of the giant kelp are used in the Puget sound region as bottles to hold fish oil and by fishermen as baitholders. The Eskimos utilize the hollow stem as a siphon to empty water out of their kayaks, which, being decked over, are not easily baled in the ordinary way. Also from sections of the stem they make wheels for toy wagons.

Certain Trouble.

The project for an American academy of poetry and song will not materialize without some friction. Neither would the institution be maintained without more controversy. If it were just a clearing house for poetry it would be easier; but even that might furnish argument. There is such a difference of opinion as to what really constitutes poetry. There is a large school willing to admit as poetry anything which has neither rhyme nor reason. Others who follow such jurists as Bryant and Longfellow insist that real poetry must have both. Possibly it would be best to compromise on a home for bards and let them till before a nonpartisan committee for admission. Even a hall of fame for poets might start a fight.—Los Angeles Times.

Truth and Light.

Nothing is so mistaken as the supposition that a person is to extricate himself from a difficulty by intrigue, by chicanery, by dissimulation, by trimming, by an untruth. This increases the difficulties tenfold, and those who pursue these methods get themselves so involved at length that they can turn no way but their infamy becomes more exposed. It is of great importance to set a resolution, not to be shaken, never to tell the untruth. There is no vice so mean, so pitiful, so contemptible, and he who permits himself to tell a lie once, finds it much easier to do it a second time. The falsehood of the tongue leads to that of the heart, and in time depraves all its good disposition.—Thomas Jefferson.

Popular Japanese Amusement.

We of the western world "loop the loop" and "shoot the chutes" in our amusement parks; but in Japan the people indulge in more gentle forms of amusement. One of their most thrilling rides is across Tokyo bay in an aerial railway. The cars hang on stout cables that are stretched across the bay and they are operated by a motorman who stands in front. The cars are made so that they will coast, in case of accident.—Popular Science Monthly.

WOMEN GIVE OUT
Housework is hard enough when healthy. Every Andover woman who is having backache, blue and nervous spells, dizzy headaches and kidney or bladder troubles, should be glad to read this Andover woman's experience: "Mrs. Fred Taylor, Rochambeau Ave., says: 'I am a very firm believer in Doan's Kidney Pills and can't recommend them too highly. About once a year, usually in the spring, I had an attack with my kidneys. At such times my kidneys became weak and irregular in action and I suffered from severe backaches, dizzy spells and attacks of blurred sight. My hands, feet and ankles would swell, due to the weak condition of my kidneys. I have also felt worn-out and listless. At such times I have resorted to the good old reliable Doan's Kidney Pills and they have never failed to remove every trace of this complaint.'"
