

Consolidated Laws of the City of New York, 1931. This document contains multiple columns of legal text, including sections on the Department of Public Safety, the Department of Education, and various municipal commissions. The text is dense and follows a structured format typical of a legal code, with sections numbered and sub-sections lettered. It covers a wide range of administrative and regulatory provisions for the City of New York in 1931.