July 4, 1871, fell on wannesman, Op Friday, July 6, the news reached Paris. Messengers were dispatched From Paris to Germany, where the newspapers commented on the death of "General Bonaparte" for the fars time on July 12, sixty-eight days after the event had taken place. And this notice was in a paper published at Mayence, then virtually a French

Mayence, then virtually a Frenca town.

The Vossische Zeitung, founded in 1704 and then, as now, the leading German daily, contained no notice of Kapoleon's death until July 14; and then it merely copied the London Times. Private individuals living in the provinces, regardless of their station in life, received the news much later. It was not conveyed to Goethe, then living at Weimar, whill the very last of July. He received it in a letter bearing a black seal.

Their Loyalty.

There is no part of the king's do minious which has shown a more active devotion than the island of Jersey. The true Jerseyman still regards the king as the successor of the duke of Normandy. Jersey elected to re and under the English crown in the

ef. Normandy. Jersey elected to remain under the English crown in the right of the Linguist crown in the right of John, when the rest of Normandy reverted to France.

It supported the Royalts cause during the Civil war and harbored Charles II when he was in exile; it banished Victor Hingo because of some slighting ramarks of his about Queen Victoria, and during the late war it passed its own military service act, for which there was your little need.

Moreover, not once nor twice in this region leand stry has armed in matter the Franch has succession was fully resisted. The last occasion was

HE SERVES BEST

The Rotary Club has as its motto, "He profits most who serves best." Surly this ought to be true," observed a man the other day who is a keen student of country life conditions. "But I doubt if it is true of the country newspaper. Few country life institutions render the service to its community that the country week, yeal know of few efficiency renders, yet I know of few efficiency for country papers who have died rich or even well to do. I was told the other day that a survey of the country papers of the state showed that the average furce each between what the editor takes in and what he pays out is only a little over $2,000. This has to be his salary and the profit on his business, in which his average investment is about $8,000. I for one am The Rotary Club has as its motto, ment is about $8,000. ment is about $5,000. I for one am glad to get back of "Subscribe for your home town paper week" which will be observed all over America the week of November #:"
