Audacious East Indian Bandit. The death of a robber king, Zarsah Shiwari, in a private quarrel in his native village, has been reported from Simla, India. His most famous exploit was the robbery of the Calcutta mail near Peshawar in December, 1918, when, with a gang of thirty men, he killed the guard, driver, and freeman, and ransacked the mail-van, but failed to discover the cash chest. Not daring to return at once to the frontier, he hid in the hills near Attock. A cordon of troops, with police levies of every description, was drawn around him, but he evaded them, and with consummate impudence kidnaped the Hindu station master of Khairabad only two days after the robbery of the mail. He retired to the Attock hills with his captive, whom he then, as a crowning piece of audacity, set on a donkey and marched at the dagger's point along the Grand Trunk road to Peshawar, across the golf links, under the noses of 3,000 troops, and across the border into the Afghani hills.

What You Eat Was Never Put on the Heating List

WORK IS HARD, ON ARTISTS

Singing into the Recording Horn Conceded to Be a Nervous-Racking Experience.

Music is a lot trickier to can than peaches or pears, remarks Farm and Fireside.

When you play one of your phonograph records you have no idea how hard it may have been to get that melody "preserved." You are listening to the result of a lot of mighty hard work, which may have included considerable storming by the director and tears on the part of the artist. Some artists simply cannot sing for the records at all, while others are nervous wrecks for days after a session of recording.

To sing into a recording-horn may look easy—just as it may look easy for a baseball player to hit a ball over the fence for a home run—but in reality it is one of the most difficult nerve-racking things anyone can attempt.

On the concert stage a singer with a good voice may make little mistakes without the audience noticing them. If he has an attractive presence and an engaging manner, he may even slug a bit of key and yet make a hit. But the wax master record is a relentless mirror, with no mercy for the imperfections that the average artist—like other human beings—is guilty of. The slightest waver or strain in the voice, the slightest deviation from the true pitch, comes out badly. And the very fact of making these minor slips into making them. The result is that many a popular stage artist has met defeat in the laboratory.

WAR ON SCREW-WORM FLIES

Traps Have Proved Effective Methods of Getting Rid of Human and Animal Pests.

The use of flytraps for catching screw-worm flies is a new idea as a means of combating those abominable insects, and has already proved decidedly effective. They are a first-class pest in some parts of this country, and especially in southwest Texas. Cattle and other livestock suffer much from their attacks, their habit being to lay eggs in any sort of wound.

The larvae hatched from the eggs bore into the tissues, feeding upon them and doing most destructive mischief. When ready to transform into pupae, they come out, drop to the ground and bury themselves to await metamorphosis into flies. The screw-worm flies are typical meat flies, and the carcasses of dead animals quickly become a hatching place for them. Hence, in the region afflicted by them, it is very important that all carcasses shall be promptly destroyed, preferably by burning. Occasionally it happens that human beings are attacked. A fly crawls up the nostrils of a sleeping person and lays its eggs. The larvae hatched from them invade the sinuses, and death is likely to result. —Milverree Sentinel.

Weather Affects Watch Springs.

Did you ever have the mainspring of a watch break? If you did, the chances are that this occurred in thunderstorm weather, writes O. A. Briggs in Popular Mechanics Magazine. It has been the experience of many jewelers that in thunderstorm seasons the number of broken watch mainsprings increases greatly. This has been erroneously ascribed, though somewhat vaguely, to the effect of electricity, magnetism, and of the noise from the thunder, but an analysis of the explanations attempted fails to develop any reasonable relation in accord with these ideas.

This matter has recently been made the subject of scientific study. It was finally found to arise from the fact that at this time of the year the air was both warm and moist, and that both of these conditions facilitated rusting. A small spot of rust often starts on the spring or in a crack, and the spring soon weakens and lets go.

HORAN HARDWARE

Hardware and Farm Implements. No tradesman stands closer to the people or can do more to help a town prosper than the hardware merchant. Every one who has a hardware store in the town knows it. Much credit is due the Horan family of this village for the way in which they carry and the goods ready for your needs. Always in hardware and farming things is the motto of their store. They are the men who are the backbone of the town. The demands of this corner hardware merchant are heavier than that of most towns, as they have to carry a larger size of the farmers, and not only of the farmers, and men, but also of our industrial oil men, and the builders. A well stocked hardware store, as the Horan Hardware, is a store to be proud of. Mr. Horan is always one of the Andover boosters, and enjoys a reputation for honesty and square dealing. He lowers the price of hardware whenever it is possible to do so, and never lowers the quality of his goods. He sells.
