

HORAN HARDWARE
Hardware and Farm Implements

No tradesman stands closer to the heart of the people or can do more to help a town prosper than the hardware merchant. Every one uses hardware. It is one of the necessities of life.

Much credit is due the Horan Hardware of this village for the quality of the goods they carry and the quantity always ready for your needs. Every thing in hardware and farm implements is the motto of their store, and they pretty nearly live up to it.

The demands of this community from the hardware merchants is much heavier than that of most towns of its size, as they have to foresee the needs not only of the farmers, and business men, but also for our industries, and oil men, and the builders.

A well stocked hardware store such as the Horan Hardware, is a big asset to any town.

Mr. Horan is always one of the Andover boosters, and enjoys a reputation for honesty and square dealing that is enviable. He lowers the price of hardware whenever it is possible, but he never lowers the quality of the goods he sells.

E. J. LOUGHLEN, M. D.
Physician

Among the prominent physicians who are looking after the health of this community, is Dr. E. J. Loughlen. The doctor has been located in Andover for 25 years, a greater portion of the time the Health Officer of the Village of Andover.

Dr. Loughlen was born at Portage, N. Y., March 16, 1852, and received his preliminary education at Pyke Seminary and Lima Seminary, after which he pursued his medical studies at New York City University Medical College, graduating in 1879. He finished his preparation at the Chicago Post Graduate Medical School.

Dr. Loughlen first located in Andover and practiced a year with the late Dr. W. W. Crandall, then went to Knapp's Creek where he practiced three years. He went from Knapp's Creek to Blunt, So. Dak., where he practiced medicine thirteen years, in 1896 Dr. Loughlen returned to Andover and has built up a fine practice in the twenty-five years he has been here, besides making a host of warm personal friends.

The genial doctor has done much toward the advancement of Andover, looking well to its sanitary condition. He is an Andover booster.

E. A. RICHARDSON & SONS
Heating, Plumbing, Tinning, and Electrical Supplies

The senior member of this firm, Mr. E. A. Richardson, has been identified with the various departments of the hardware business nearly all his life. In 1895 he went to work for D. K. Porter, one of Andover's hardware merchants. In 1896 he entered the employ of E. J. Atwood, who was engaged in the hardware business, where he worked six years. From the Atwood store Mr. Richardson went to Belmont and worked with John Nicholson in the hardware store two years. November 6, 1903 he returned to Andover, purchasing a one-half interest in the D. K. Porter hardware. This firm known as Porter & Richardson, was in business ten years, until 1913, when it was dissolved, Mr. Richardson going to Walden, N. Y. working with J. H. Westerman. He was there one year.

In 1914 Mr. Richardson returned to Andover and opened business again, doing heating, plumbing and tinning work, in partnership with his son, Porter W. Richardson, under the firm name of E. A. Richardson & Son. After the village installed electricity Mr. Richardson took his younger son, Max Richardson, into partnership also and the firm is known to-day as E. A. Richardson & Sons.

They keep a full line of electrical supplies, deal in Steward furnaces, and stoves and ranges, besides doing a heavy plumbing business.

SOME OF OUR OLDER BOYS

No paper telling of the growth and progress of Andover would be complete without a word about some of the old men who in years gone by have been active in the affairs of the town and village. The greater number have passed on to beauty and adorn the "Celestial City," but a few remain with us, of whom we will write briefly:

T. N. BOYD, was born in Andover in 1844 and has always lived in this town. He has been one of Andover's progressive and successful farmers, specializing in breeding the milking strain of Short-Horn Cattle. Mr. Boyd has served the Town of Andover as Supervisor, Town Clerk, and for a number of years Assessor. He is a veteran of the Civil War, serving many years as President of the local Post G. A. R. Has been an experienced hunter and marksman, winning many "shoots" on the local rifle range. He says that "he is the champion stone picker, and owns more big stone heaps than any two men in the Town of Andover."

R. A. PEASE was born in the Town of Greenwood, in 1849, and moved to Andover in 1900. He has been active in all of the activities of the village and community ever since he became a citizen. He served on the Village Board two years as Trustee, and was six years member of the Board of Education.

U. W. STRATTON was born in Wayland, N. Y., in 1839. He came to Andover in 1881 and engaged in the cheese manufacturing business, near Elm Valley. In 1906 he purchased a home on Main Street and has been closely identified with the village since, serving as trustee of the village two years.

He is a veteran of the Civil War.

F. C. DAVIS, SR. was born in 1839, in the Town of Andover, N. Y., and was a successful farmer until moving to Andover twenty-three years ago. He served the town as road commissioner two years, was a Civil War veteran, and voted for Abraham Lincoln in 1860 and again in 1864. He has always been a red blooded American and a leader among the boys of the G. A. R.

DELOS D. REMINGTON was born in the Town of Independence, near the town line, between Andover and that town, in 1835. He came to Andover in 1888, and worked leasing land for the Mutual Gas Company for a year or more and then entered the firm of Wm. Church. Afterward he with the late S. J. Fowler, started a furniture and undertaking business in the building now known as the Fowler store. Mr. Remington served the Town of Andover as assessor. He was three years and three months in the service of Uncle Sam, in the War of the Rebellion, being a member of Co. A, 130th N. Y. Vol., afterwards mounted and known as the "First Dragoons." He has always been active in G. A. R. matters.

HENRY HORAN was born in Andover and until a year or so ago was engaged in farming. He is known as a progressive farmer and good citizen, always having a good word for the town; is a director of Andover State Bank. He has recently purchased a fine residence property on the corner of Second and Chestnut Streets, and has moved to Andover village where he has many interests.

PROSPERITY SALE

Celebrating the Return of Good Times With Bright Prospects for the Future Prosperity of Hornell and Our Republic

Governor Harding of the Federal Reserve Board Says That:

Business Has Turned the Corner and bases his conclusion on these facts:

The movement of prices which has been steadily downward, has checked itself.
The volume of Federal Reserve notes in circulation has been greatly reduced.
The wholesale price index reached 272 and stands now near 148.
Industries are reviving.

Charles M. Schwab

says he expects America to become the workshop of the world. Supporting this optimism in the return of good times Bethlehem Steel directors have decided to proceed at once with construction plans for increasing the company's possible output and to increase operations at existing plants.

Secretary of Agriculture

Meredith says this year's $14,000,000 crop will enable the American farmer to head parade toward prosperity.

Nation-wide Business Spurt-Survey Shows

Women's Wear reveals through telegraphic reports from 19 of the largest cities in the country great business gains. In every case the opinion was expressed that "with removal of the rail strike threat and generally improved employment conditions that November and December will bring a great spurt in business."

Business is good. We are distributing more merchandise than at any previous time in our history and we confidently believe that the present return of GOOD TIMES is but the beginning of still greater times of progress.

Re-Adjustment History

Quoting the governor of the Federal Reserve Board: Prices, physical volume of production, trade and business in general reached their lowest point during the first half of 1920. From early autumn of 1920 to spring 1921, there was a steady recession of prices, wages, values and world wide readjustment. From spring onward 1921 has been a period of approach to equilibrium and of preparation from extreme depression.

Now the leading economists, financiers, statisticians and government experts are one in the opinion that GOOD TIMES are returning and great prosperity is just ahead.

We Could Not Refrain From Celebrating at Such Glad Tidings and Could Think of No Better Way Than By a Prosperity Sale

For in no other way could we so benefit the public than by our proposed reduction of prices during the sale—no other way could direct public attention to the return of good times as sensational price-cutting coupled with the word PROSPERITY—no other way than by the sacrifice of profits could we express our thanks for the return of GOOD TIMES.

Sale Starts Saturday Nov. 12 and Continues to November 19th
