"Once Won't Hurt You."

All the troubles of the would-be dieter aren't due to lack of will power. A woman playwright says friends are responsible for inducing one to disregard the doctor's orders, however friendly their motives may be.

"I'm having the hardest time," she wailed, according to the New York Sun, "keeping to my diet. Well-meaning friends invite me to lunch and to dinner and then are offended if I don't sample everything on the menu. Just once won't hurt you," they argue—or, "well, I've planned this dinner for you and you've got to eat it."

The result is you generally always do eat it—with subsequent regrets. The only remedy is to stay home for all meals—and that takes more will power than it does to diet."

"I Just Don't Feel Right"

What joyful relief and satisfaction to find that with slight expense and so little time, the annoying influenza with its danger of pneumonia, kidney and heart trouble, biliousness, fever or headache; bowel or liver disorder, or other serious sickness has been safely and easily prevented.

Camera on Plan of the Eye.

The camera is nothing more or less than a huge model of the eye. Light passing through the lens of the eye is focused on the retina, which corresponds exactly to the ground-glass screen or the plate of the camera. Through the retina's chief use is to send an impression in the brain, it is capable of retaining an image for some time. Light has the same effect on it as on a photographic plate. To test the truth of this you have only to look for a moment at some brightly illuminated object, and then to cast the eyes up to the white ceiling; you will find that you see the image of the object for quite a long time.
