National Silk Week

National Exposition of Everything in Silk

Following the custom of the progressive retail dry goods stores of the country, we participate this year in National Silk Week, by an exposition of our own, following the great Silk Show held the last month in the Grand Central Palace, New York City. Here over $3,000,000 of the finest silk fabrics were shown in such a stupendous display that description is impossible. Over 175 great concerns were exhibitors at this show. Every detail of the silk industry was here exemplified, from the mulberry leaf and silk worm, to the finest of finished articles. Today the silk industry is one of the very greatest of the nations of the world in manufacture of silk. Its business is nearly as large today as all the other nations of the world. E. Irving Hansen, first vice-president and treasurer of H. R. Mallinson Co., says of the Silk Show: "We believe it is a bigger, better, broader exploitation of the world's most beautiful fabric. The United States is not only the greatest silk-producing country of the world, but is manufacturing silks that in originality, in beauty, in authentic style, in quality and in quantity are the equal of those woven anywhere in the world." The C. F. Babcock Co., for National Silk Week, present for your consideration the very latest and most beautiful of the year's successes. Every item chosen not only for its desirability in practical ways, but for the subtle charm that comes from great art in designing and faithful work in production. Our three display windows will present the latest fabrics and manufactured creations. Every article, whether fabric or garment or other article, made of silk will be on exposition. We have endeavored to make this display worthy of the discrimination of Hornell folks and our friends from out of town. Nearly every department of this large store has a special display of silk during this exposition.

CREPES of various weaves of silk, are undoubtedly the leaders. This Spring sheer, Georgette Crepes, Fine Crepe de Chines and Flat Crepes. Heavier Types—The heavy, sumptuous Cantons, two-faced Crepes such as Satin Canton and Crepe Satin; heavier still and wonderfully beautiful the types like Roshanara.

SATINS and CHARMEUSE — These cannot be eliminated from among the wanted silks for they fill a niche all their own and will be much used. Ours are unusually fine.

TAFETAS Much has been said about a renewed demand for Taffetas and developments prove that such is the case. The better grades such as Belongs are much sought after for afternoon and street wear, the lighter ones for young people's evening gowns.

PONGEES—Conclusive is the verdict for a run on Pongees and associated lines for Spring. Vast quantities will be used of the ever popular silk. All grades here for call.

SPORT SILKS—Such a variety here as bewilders the eye in the light and more serviceable combinations and weaves. Silks for skirts, silks for coats, silks for suits, silks for sweaters, silks for gowns. The season will be lively with its gay colors and designs.

BLOUSE SILKS—Here the call has been overwhelming with the insistent demand for new and still from the various countries of the orient. Egypt, with the mysteries of its thousands of years, has given us much to marvel at and enjoy. Arabia has her rarely beautiful conception evolved thro the hundreds, yes, thousands of years of her desert artists to offer us. India, also with her mystic past inspires much in the converters of her designs for the women of today.

And so it is with the combined beauty of color and perfect ensemble of designs interwoven in a harmonious unit. The East is West today.

Our efforts to collect the best and the artistic in these has been painstaking. The peer of all silk concerns, when it comes to originality of design, is responsible for much we offer you in this, Our Silk Show.

Our large display windows will give you but a thought of what we show these days in the interior. Make this store your headquarters for the week of exposition.
