EARLY SPRAY CHECKS
APPLE APHIDS

Eggs Hatch With First Warm Days—
Spray Must Reach All Buds

As the days grow warmer and the buds begin to swell and show green at the tips, the apple aphids begin to hatch out and cluster on the buds, where they begin feeding on the tender green tissues. At this time the insects are much more susceptible to spray applications than a little later when the apple foliage has advanced sufficiently to afford the aphids some protection, says the entomologist at the New York Agricultural Experiment Station at Geneva. Three-fourths of a pint of nicotine sulfate added to 100 gallons of spray mixture gives very satisfactory control, says this authority, provided a very thorough application is made.

Spray From Ground
In the Station Experiments, adequate control has been obtained only when the spray was applied from the ground and under the trees rather than from the spray rig as is commonly done in New York orchards. This is due to the fact, says the Station workers, that the lower buds on the trees and the undersides of the twigs and branches are not thoroughly covered with the spray when it is applied from the top of the spray tank. On the other hand, when spraying is done from the ground and when the operator moves about under the tree so as to insure wetting the undersides of every twig and branch, the pests may be completely wiped out.

BETTER MENUS MAKE FOR BETTER MARKS

What to Feed School Children to Help in Their Studies Here Suggested by Food Experts

A good mark in school often depends less on how hard a child studies than on what he is eating, say specialists in home economics at Cornell. Especially is this true in cold weather when the right food is necessary not only to supply energy for play and other activities, but for keeping warm.

The following is given as a satisfactory daily menu: For breakfast, orange, prunes or dried apricots and oatmeal, a wheat cereal or cornmeal. There should be milk or weak cocoa and toast, preferably of whole wheat bread. The main dish for dinner may be macaroni and cheese or an egg, or — two or three times a week — a small serving of meat, a baked potato, buttered carrots, onions, beets or a green vegetable, whole wheat bread with butter, a baked apple and milk.

Don't Hurry Meals
It is better for a child to have dinner at noon than at night; in case, however, the noon meal must be hurried so the child can get back to school, the supper menu should be given at noon, and the dinner menu as early as possible at night.

For supper, a cream soup is especially good in winter; cream of potato, carrot, celery, spinach or bean soup are especially good. For a vegetable, celery or buttered onions or tomatoes may be served, with whole wheat bread and butter. For dessert, there may be baked custard or rice and raisin pudding or stewed fruit, with oatmeal, or ginger cookies and, of course, milk.

Changes may be made in all these menus; for instance, a variety of fruits and vegetables may be chosen, but the general plan should be held to closely.

Cabbage weaker in eastern markets, spinach strong. Celery and lettuce declining. California iceberg lettuce $2.75-3.75 per crate in consuming market, $1.50-1.65 f. o. b.

Hay

Practically all important timothy hay markets remained firm during the past week because of light receipts especially of good grades of hay. Arrivals in some markets were largely of the lower grades which were in less urgent demand. Soft country roads and shortage of cars are held responsible for the light movement. Prices advanced 50c-1.50 per ton in several markets. Quoted March 10: No. 1 timothy Boston $25.50, New York $29, Phila. $23, Pittsburgh $21.50, Cincinnati $19.50, Chicago $23, St. Louis $20.

Feed

Most feed markets quiet with feedstuffs of all description in ample supply. Interior dealers well supplied and little inquiry from that source. Transit offerings light but future shipment offerings plentiful. Bran from April-May shipment offered $3.50 per ton below prevailing prices. Linseed meal week and offered at $4.60 in Chicago market. Cottonseed meal dull but prices holding fairly steady. Glutenfeed situation unchanged. Accumulation of gluten meal resulted in reduction in price of $4 per ton. Hominy feed weak and in light request. Movement fair. Quoted March 10: Bran $28, middlings $28, flour middlings $29.75, wheat millrun $28.25 Minneapolis; 36% cottonseed meal $40.50 Memphis, $41.50 Atlanta; white hominy feed $28.50 St. Louis $29 Chicago; glutenfeed $42.65 Chicago; 34% linseed meal $46 Minneapolis, $47.50 Buffalo.

Dairy and Poultry Products

Butter markets unsettled during the week under the influence of several factors. Heavier receipts including the arrival of some two and one-half million pounds of New Zealand butter, proved to be more than the markets could stand, and price declines were registered toward the middle of the week. Later advances which occurred, however, brought markets back to practically the same price level as a week ago. One outstanding feature of the week was the very narrow range in prices between top score and undergrade, which was scarcely more than 1c on several days. Closing prices, 92 score butter: New York 48 1/2 c, Phila. 49c, Boston 50 1/2 c Chicago 48c. Cheese markets relatively firm. Domestic demand generally dull but markets materially strengthened by quite heavy buying for export trade. This was unexpected but came at a time when markets most likely would have declined but for it. Prices at Wisconsin primary cheese markets March 10: Twins 23 1/2 c, Daisies 22 1/2 c, Double Daisies 22 1/2 c Longhorns 24c, Square Prints 25 1/2 c.

Would You Let Anyone
Give You Poisoned Food?

You are literally doing this dangerous thing if you permit undigested food to lie in your stomach; if you neglect to help your Liver separate Acid formations; keep your intestines free, and your Bowels regulated! These vital organs, when run down, or weakened by neglect, excesses or improper care, "cry out" for help. If help is not given then the acid, sour, undigested foods become stagnant, irritating wastes. In time they spread their destructive influence through the Blood, endangering, impairing and POISONING the entire system.
