LET US BE GLAD

Let us be glad.
One is not desolate or walks alone if he has a friend, Who is glad to share the comfort of his hearth at journey's end.
And lacking pleasant house, there's house of dream somewhere, Flower-gemmed, tree-nestled, set by singing waters. One may share That house with folk who have the right to enter in; and they Who follow the flame of the torch of Love shall find the way.
Let us be glad.
Hard toil's and trouble's shuttles weave—it's true—a golden web.
The tide that takes our hopes turns home again at lowest ebb.
Behind the door of Silence dancers and pipers await.
Dawn's laden hands, light-ringed, are on the latch of darkest gate.
Let us be glad.
Arouse the laggard soul to rise and climb the hills with Dawn, And leave gray ghosts of rankling blunders far behind, and—on—
Let us be glad.
The only gate that is fast-barred is the gate that one has not tried; Oh soul, pitch tent upon the high-road where God's couriers ride.
Life's always forward. Hear the skirling winds o' the hills, and rise;
The Joyous God is partner in every high enterprise.
Let us be glad.
How much a cheering word may speed the weary know; A merry heart's good medicine with which the road to go.
And a cup of kindness, friends, love-sweet of the Master's Grail, Gives heart to folk lift the pack and try anew Life's Trail.
Why then be troubled, oh my Soul?
cast down? disquiet? sad?
Believe in God and Man and Self Face forward and be glad.

It is easy to be religious with the crowd, under the spell of eloquence and uplifting song. The crowd is magnetic, we gather virtue from contact. But the mills of the Everyday grind down to the bones of the soul.

The religious impulse must be deep under the skin.

A great many men are courteous and helpful to other men; good fellows on the street, in the club, but the test comes when they strike the home-trail.

A great many women are pleasant to other women, in the mothers' club, in social circles, but when we slip quietly around the back way and see them at their hearths—we shall

Agriographs

Watch the thermometer, and turn the egg if you'd have a successful hatch.

Seeds, like folks, like a good bed.
Prepare it well and make more money.

He loved each simple joy the country yields; he loved his mates.— Matthew Arnold.

Like strawberries? Why not raise 'em? Bulletin E 56, from the State College at Ithaca tells how.

What does it profit a man if he sprays and sprays and sprays when his neighbor's orchard is a veritable storehouse of insect and disease pests?

Uncle Ab says: "The man who goes more than half way in making folks happy in this world, is more than half way toward happiness in the next one."

Always letter your name carefully, especially when sending for something; there's lots of difference, usually, between a mere signature and a name that can be read.

There are too many things to do on the farm that will pay, to make it worth while to work at tasks that won't pay. Keep accounts and know whether you are putting in time on a losing proposition.

Homespun Yarn

Tired arms will be saved in scrubbing scorched pans if copper wire mats are used.

One good picture that you can't live without is better than a dozen on the walls that you oughtn't to live with.

To be forehanded in the flower garden, all plans should be made and seeds ordered; and tools should be ready for use.

Aunt Ada's Axioms: "Don't be too hard on little children's 'stories'; you may be wrecking the imagination of a poet."

A tough chicken will taste almost like a gay young one if a little water is put in the bottom of the pan in which it is roasted.

Home should be an oratoria of the memory singing to all our after-life melodies and harmonies of old-remembered joy. — Henry Ward Beecher.

"Growing Sweet Peas" is a timely bulletin issued by the State Agricultural College at Ithaca. Ask for F.
151 if you'd like a copy. A postal card will do.

Of course no one would wear high French heels when doing the housework. But run down heels are just as tiring; new rubber ones will last at least three months.

Right from the press, just in time for spring needs — a reprint of "Incubation," the State Agricultural College bulletin on hatching chickens. Write F. 156, on a postal card, sign your name and address and send it to Ithaca.
