BROOKLYN COLORED GIANTS WERE HERE

Celebrated Players Detained in Andover Over Night by Broken Bus

Andover was honored Wednesday night by a visit of the "Brooklyn Colored Giants," the "Colored Champions of the East" in base ball. While the visit of these artists in the base ball world was not official, but enforced because of a breakdown in the large 16-passenger bus, transporting them from Bath to Warren, Pa., it offered many Andover fans the opportunity of acquaintance with some famous ball players.

There were seventeen in the party, including, besides the manager, A. G. Mass, who also owns all the bus lines in Andover, William Mousset, of North Adams, Mass., who also owns all the bus lines in Florida. He was making the trip for pleasure.

In the line-up were all the celebrated colored base ball artists of the United States, including "String Bean Williams," the celebrated colored pitcher, "Mountain Hubbard," "Cannon Ball" Redding and Stark, Rector, Douglas, Flornoy, Scott, Hill, Waters, Spearman, Cason, Rogers, Fiala, Turner, Brooks and others.

The team evidently was in a period of bad luck, just at present, as the breaking of their bus delayed them twelve hours in Andover when they should have been on their way to meet an engagement at Warren, Pa. They had just lost two games, one to Hornell on Tuesday, and one at Bath Wednesday, being the only losses they had had in a string of forty games.

Unlike many other ball teams who have stopped in Andover, these "Colored gentlemen" were entirely lacking that characteristic slang and rough stuff talk. Altho in bad luck and much peeved because of the breakdown, they all conducted themselves while here like gentlemen, not an oath nor remark that could be repugnant to the most sensitive ear was heard from any one.

The party put up at Hotel Swink for the night.

U. W. STRATTON

Another of Andover's Old Veterans and much respected citizens, Comrade U. W. Stratton, was called by death Monday afternoon, after an illness of eight weeks of dry gangrene and pneumonia, aged 83 years, 6 months and 23 days.

Uriah Wright Stratton was born in Wayland, N. Y., Dec. 2, 1839, and died at his home in this village, June 25, 1923. He was the son of the late Samuel and Catherine Dilliston Stratton. He was united in marriage with Miss Dorolaki Beebe Sept. 16, 1865. Their early life was passed in Friendship and Wirt.

Forty-one years ago they came to Andover, settling at Elm Valley, where for twenty-six years Mr. Stratton owned and conducted the Elm Valley cheese factory. Fifteen years ago he purchased the Crusen home on Main Street in this village and came to Andover village to make it their home. Mr. Stratton became one of our esteemed and prominent citizens. For a number of years he was one of the Trustees of the village. He has lived a good life among us; was always honest and honorable in his dealings with his fellow men and bore the very highest reputation for integrity and uprightness.

Mr. Stratton was prominent in Edward Seaman Post, G. A. R. and his war record proved his patriotism to his country. He was a member of Co. D. 85th New York Volunteers, enlisting at Bolivar, Sept. 27, 1861 and served with that regiment until it was discharged, May 11, 1862, when he was transferred to Company H. 109th Regiment, New York Volunteers and served with that regiment until he was honorably discharged Aug. 11, 1865.

Comrade Stratton was wounded in the battle of Petersburg in the left hand and left leg, and participated in the battles of his regiment at the Wilderness, Spotsylvania, Cold Harbor and at the siege of Petersburg.

He leaves his wife, a grandson, Leon Wahl, of Andover and two great grandchildren, besides hundreds of sorrowing friends to mourn his loss.

Funeral services were conducted Wednesday afternoon, at 2:30 at the family home on Main Street, Rev. R. E. MacGowan, pastor of the Presbyterian Church, officiating, Comrades of the G. A. R. attending the service in a body.

The interment was made in the family plot in Hillside Cemetery.

PIANO RECITAL

The pupils of Mrs. Claude Vincent are to give a recital at the Auditorium, Monday evening next, July 2nd. The program is to be augmented by some very capable assistants, Mrs. Philanda W. Read, soprano, who has studied with Clarence Read and Horatio Cornwell, and is a graduate of the Peabody Institute at Baltimore, and Miss Eleanor M. Crane of the Emerson School of Oratory, and a special student of William Howard Kenny.

The two extra features are worth much more than the small admission fee of 25 cents.

Andover people are fortunate in having this opportunity of hearing such good talent.

Tickets are on sale to-day at Brown's Furniture Store.

BIBLE SCHOOL MEET WAS VERY WELL ATTENDED.

Successful Gathering of County Association at Friendship, Last Week

Last week, June 19-20, the Allegany County Bible School Association held one of the best conventions in its history at Friendship. The attendance was good there being about three hundred registered delegates and an attendance of about five hundred by a school parade led and organized by Rev. F. J. Hayden of Friendship, with two hundred or more in line. Out side of the Friendship schools, the Richburg Baptist had the largest delegation in attendance, with the Belmont Baptist school second.

The addresses were of a high order. The subjects of Bible School Evangelism, Standard schools, Daily Vacation Schools, and Week Day Schools of Religious Education were considered, besides many inspirational addresses given.

The next convention will be held in Angelica the last week in May 1924. Rev. Walter W. Greene was re-elected General Superintendent and John W. Miller of Wellsville was elected president to succeed Rev. C. W. Flewelling the efficient officer of this year's convention.

ANNUAL MEETING OF DAIRYMEN'S LEAGUE.

Commends Present Administration and Soundness of Pooling Plan.

At the annual meeting of the Dairymen's League Cooperative Association Inc., in the State Armory, Utica, N. Y., on June 21 the delegates by a unanimous vote adopted resolutions reaffirming their unalterable belief in the soundness of the pooling plan. They gave a hearty endorsement of the present administration and commended its accomplishments during the fiscal year ending March 31. The meeting demonstrated very clearly that the members are united as never before and are more determined than ever to carry out its big plans.

One of the features of the meeting was the launching of a nationwide fight against oleomargarine. This action was taken in a resolution, passed without a single dissenting vote, to memorialize Congress to pass a law prohibiting the manufacture and importation of oleomargarine and expressing the belief that such a law "would be in the interest of public health, agriculture and general welfare upon which depend the happiness and prosperity of all nations."

It was estimated that over 1500 men and women were in the gayly decorated auditorium when George W. Slocum, the president, called the meeting to order. The day was warm and most of the men sat in their shirt sleeves. Over twenty-five bankers from various parts of New York State were present at the invitation of the Executive Committee. Several big New York city banking institutions sent representatives. The banks are getting much interested in the rapid development of the association's marketing system and are closely watching its operations.

President Slocum's annual report was filled with interesting facts concerning the work of the association's departments and the big things accomplished during the year. He said the association's fixed marketing program calls, first, for the development and expansion of the fluid milk business and, second, the expansion and development of its evaporated milk business. In these two lines of production, he said, the association has a distinct competitive advantage.

Mr. Slocum said that during the past year, the total gross sales of the association amounted to $82,130,902.17. This was an increase of $20,000,000 over the figures of the preceding year. The president said the association was operating 111 plants on March 31, the end of the fiscal year, and of this number, 83 were under New York City Board of Health inspection, either shipping or getting ready to ship fluid milk into New York city at a moment's notice. During the year, the president said, the association took over the city and country operations of the Levy Dairy Company, New York city distributors. All of the country plants have been brought up to the same standards maintained by all the association's other plants, he said.

Mr. Slocum described the recent organization of the sales and advertising department and told about the sales campaign for evaporated milk recently launched in New York city. He said that since March 5, 1923 over 11,000 retail accounts were opened in New York city. "We believe," Mr. Slocum said, "the League must become a larger factor in the direct to consumer business before it will have a sufficiently great influence on the metropolitan market to increase the farmers' return. Your officers and directors believe this is the big problem which faces the League and should be solved during the next twelve months."

Secretary Albert Manning said that on April 1, the association had 64,251 pooling contracts on hand and since then contracts have been coming in at the rate of 600 a month. The association now has 950 locals, he said. "At no time in the history of the organization," Mr. Manning said, "has there been a better feeling toward it by the public than at present. We feel deeply indebted to the newspapers of the territory which have so consistently given their support and co-operation throughout the entire year."

The annual report of Bruce M. Kilpatrick, treasurer, showed that the association's assets amount to over $19,000,000. The association's lands, buildings and equipment are valued at over $6,000,000.

John D. Miller, vice-president of the association and president of the

All are welcome to attend this school. There are to be six teachers. Any one over three years of age is eligible. The school hours are to be between the hours of 9 a. m. and 11:30. No afternoon sessions.

Each day at 11 o'clock and educational film is to be shown on the screen and a comic following.

For further particulars see advertisement in another column.

National Milk Producer's Federation made an address along organization lines that aroused the enthusiasm of all.

"In this great work there is no room for sectionalism," he said.

"It is not possible for one group, one section of dairymen to permanently prosper and another group to be permanently depressed. We are all going to rise together or we are going down together. We are bound by laws which we do not make and which we cannot repeal and the great inspiring that gives us courage is that your co-operative movement is attracting to its support more and more of the moral forces of the country and against those more forces no power can long prevail."

John M. Kelley, vice-president of the Holstein-Friesian Association of America, impressed upon the farmer the necessity of advertising their products. He urged them in all their advertising to emphasize the food value of milk and to keep always before the public a picture of what milk will do for health.

H. M. Eppes of Accord, N. Y., a farmer and a pooler led the community singing, always a feature of League gatherings.

The Board of Directors of the Dairymen's League Co-operative Association, Inc., for 1923-24 organized on June 22 by re-electing the following officers: G. W. Slocum, Milton, Pa., president; John D. Miller, Squehanna, Pa., vice-president; Albert Manning, Otisville, N. Y., secretary; Bruce M. Kilpatrick, Utica, N. Y., treasurer.

The directors also elected four members of the Executive Committee as follows: Paul Smith, Newark Valley, N. Y.; Fred H. Sexauer, Auburn, N. Y.; J. A. Coulter, Woodville, N. Y. Mr. Coulter succeeds John S. Pettesy, Greenwich, N. Y. The others were re-elected. The president is ex-officio the chairman of the Executive Committee, which acts as a Board of Governors.

ALFRED TIGERS BEAT K. O. T. M. BALL TEAM

Alfred Team Takes Loosely Played Ball Game Here Sunday by 5 to 6 Score

Last year the local ball club defeated the Alfred bunch by a score of 5 to 6. But last Sunday the Alfred team turned the tables and won by the same score.

Errors—and then more errors—was the sole cause of this defeat. Everybody seemed to take one particular day to get "em out of their system. Fenner for Alfred and Bloss for Andover, both pitched good ball, but Andover had the upper hand on the error column which automatically gave Alfred the large end of the tally sheet.

Following is the official score:

TAKE OFF YOUR LID TO ANDOVER'S POLICE.

Two Elmira Chaps Pay $25 for Speeding in Andover Streets.

Andover's traffic officers are beginning to set up and take notice. Saturday night, just before midnight, as officer Wyckoff was patrolling the streets an automobile turned the corner of Elm Street on to Main Street at a lively clip. It passed another car, that was making at least twenty-five miles an hour, so quickly that it made it appear as tho they were standing still.

Officer Wyckoff stepped out from one of his private haunts where he can see all that is going on without being seen himself, and signalled the car to stop. They gave him the h-ha-ha. Whereupon he pulled his gun and shot at one of their tires as they passed. Not being experienced in winging these auto speeders as are the state troopers, he missed his object. The automobilists proceeded on their way with even greater speed, arriving in Wellsville shortly after.

Officer Wyckoff went to the telephone and called the chief of police there, and asked him to stop the car until he could get there. The reply came back, "They are here and gone to bed already."

Not to be outdone by any crafty speed-fiends, Wyckoff got a car and drove to Wellsville where he found that his birds had registered at Hotel Fassett and retired for the night. He proceeded to their room and placed them under arrest. They refused to get up and dress, contending that the officer had no right to arrest them without a warrant. Wyckoff allowed that he had and placed hand cuffs on one of them and fastened the other end to his person, and told them they were going to Andover to answer the charge of speeding, they could dress or not as they pleased. But he would advise them to take along their pocket books whether they did their clothing or not. They immediately concluded that the Andover cop meant what he said and dressed.

Wyckoff placed them in the car which had taken him to Wellsville and returned to Andover. He first stopped at Police Justice Grant Sherwood's but as the judge had not yet his papers just as he thot they should be, refused to act. The officer gave his prisoners the choice of going before Justice Bundy or the coop. They decided on Bundy.

After a hearing, in which the prisoners claimed they were innocent, as they all do, Judge Bundy mercifully informed them they could go, but must first leave $25 with him. This they did and were allowed to depart, making the trip back to their Wellsville bed by "Hank's" horses. "We will wager they did not exceed any speed limit on their return trip."

The News is informed that the parties were two representatives of the National Cash Register Company, P. B. Sowtell and J. E. Wallace with headquarters at Elmira. The gentlemen, are told, were in Hornell, and hearing that there was to be a dance at Wellsville made a fast drive for the party. Their dance, however, took place in Andover instead.

Now Mr. Plain Bill take off your hat and salute Andover's Cop! Then go out and swear you never said it.
