BRADFUTE EXPLAINS FARM BUREAU WAREHOUSE PLAN

According to O. E. Bradfute of Ohio, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, who has been spending some time in this state attending farm bureau meetings, the national farmers association is unalterably opposed to governmental price fixing on wheat or any other product.

Farmers in every audience which Mr. Bradfute addressed were anxious to hear direct from the national president what the American federation's much discussed wheat plan really is. Mr. Bradfute declared that the American federation had no radical ideas on the matter. "We have asked," he said, "that the Secretary of Agriculture begin to administer the amended warehouse law which permits farmers to warehouse wheat in duly certified warehouses at points of production and obtain credit from the banks on their warehouse receipts."

"It is entirely within the farmers' power to wait a market with 200,000,000 bushels or more of wheat. If each of one million wheat farmers would store in their farm bins only 200 bushels, they would then be able to market the balance in a normal manner. This would stabilize the market and the wheat farmer would be able to get cost of production prices."

"The government machinery is ready to give farmers credit on grain stored on farms or in farmers warehouses. The farm loan board which administers the Intermediate Credit Act has notified the 12 intermediate credit banks to accept warehouse approved by the Secretary of Agriculture," Mr. Bradfute said.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture estimates the present harvest to be 821,000,000 bushels and we will carry over from last year about 100,000,000 bushels compared with 78,000,000 last year. Thus the farmers have to dispose of 921,000,000 bushels this year. We will consume this year as food about 5 bushels per capita or 500,000,000 bushels; as seed we will save 90,000,000 bushels; we will feed 17,000,000; and we would normally carry over into next year about 73,000,000 bushels. This would give us a total of 600,000,000 bushels used in the United States, making available for export or other purposes 241,000,000 bushels. It is estimated that exports will run only about 50,000,000 bushels.

GOVERNORS WILL SPEAK AT NATIONAL DAIRY SHOW

Governor A. R. Nestos of North Dakota and Governor W. H. McMaster of South Dakota are among the illustrious men of this country whom visitors of the National Dairy show on the state fair grounds at Syracuse, N. Y., Oct. 5 to 13, will be privileged to hear.

Governor Nestos is regarded as one of the most interesting speakers in the country.

"It's time the young folks in this country stopped learning to dance to jazz music and begin to learn to milk," is one of his famous phrases which has been quoted from coast to coast. He has taken an active interest in dairying and has promoted progress of the industry in his state, until at present it is recognized as one of the most progressive in the dairy industry.

Governor McMaster has established as one of his policies that prosperity follows the dairy cow and that the milk station and creamery are two of the most vital factors in the progress of the nation. Like Governor Nestos, he, too, is a champion of the dairy industry.

Other prominent statesmen and executives have informed W. E. Skinner, general manager of the exposition, of their intention to attend. Interesting addresses will be given every day, lending additional interest to the big exposition of the dairy industry.

EARLY PLOWING FOR WHEAT

Wheat does best on a firm seedbed, according to the state agricultural college. This necessitates early plowing. "Plan to plow as early as harvest, labor and seasonal conditions permit. Seed on the date best for your community. Your farm bureau has information relative to wheat seeding dates for the county, the college explains.

DRY FODDER CALLED GOOD FOR ENSILAGE

Addition of Moisture May Be Necessary to Make It Pack Well in Silo.—Cows Like It.

Farmers who do not get their silage made before frost may yet have good silage if they will utilize the dry fodder for this purpose, according to the livestock men at the state college of agriculture.

Fodder silage not only makes better feed than dry fodder, but it is also more convenient to feed. Even though the corn fodder appears dry and wilted the stalk will be found to contain considerable moisture. If there is not enough moisture in the corn to pack the corn well in the silo, additional water should be added. By adding this to the fanbox, the fan thoroughly distributes the additional water.

Even entirely dry fodder will make good silage providing the water is added equal in weight to the fodder. In any case, the fodder should be tramped down thoroughly.

Silage made in this manner will keep well. The quality is not quite as good as that made from corn cut while still green and no extra water added, but it makes excellent feed. Silage made from cornfodder, further, is not nearly as sour. It has a pleasant sweet smell and the cows not only like it but thrive on it as well.

Homespun Yarn

Have the youngsters the bug-hunting craze? The state college at Ithaca has a free bulletin telling about hunting and preserving insects. It is E 59.

Use a cake of soap to its last bit. Moisten the thin piece of unused soap and the new cake, press them tightly together, and set them aside to dry for a few hours. Bits of toilet soap may be dissolved to form an excellent shampoo.

A glass of water before breakfast for all members of the family will do a lot toward keeping their systems in good working order thru the hot weather.

To preserve the decorations or gold borders on fine china, use a mild soap and wash one piece at a time.

If the oil stove is moved out on the porch and the canning done there, preserving won't seem so much like a hot task.

Are the children ready to start to school in good health and vigor? Maybe a change of scene will be good for them; or a visit to the dentist or oculist.

Agrigraphs

The best fall plowing is that which is done earliest.

Weedy fence rows and corners harbor insects, and look ragged besides.

It may be just as profitable to keep down expenses as to increase the income.

It may be well to turn the poorer hay fields into pasture, and put hay into the poorer crop fields.

Looking toward winter's firewood, take out decayed and crooked trees, and give young thrifty, straight ones a better chance to grow.

TOMATOES ARE RICH IN FOOD MATERIALS.

And They Have All Three of the Vitamins so Essential to Health—Have Many Uses.

Ithaca, N. Y. Tomatoes are said to be the richest of all the feed fruits in the food materials that fruits offer. They are especially rich in the three vitamins, and one of the vitamins which they contain is not easily found in other foods, according to food specialists at Cornell.

Tomatoes retain most of their food value even when they are meated for canning, or cooked for table use, and so the wise housewife who puts into her cans the foods that will count most in keeping her family well the year round always includes tomatoes. She looks ahead to the winter months when fresh fruit is scarce and expensive and plans to serve tomatoes at least twice a week. If she uses canned tomatoes for nine months of the year, she will can at least twelve quarts of tomatoes for each member of the family.

Many persons like to eat fresh tomatoes out of the hand, as any other fruit.

Fine For Salads

Fresh tomatoes make delicious salads, alone or combined with lettuce, cucumber, mild onion, celery, string beans, cottage cheese egg, nuts, and mayonnaise or cooked dressing, tomato juice combined with gelatin makes a refreshing salad. Potato salad on slices of tomato is attractive.

Tomatoes slipped into the picnic basket and sliced at the last minute and put between pieces of buttered bread, spread with mayonnaise are delicious and easy to prepare.

Cooked or canned tomatoes may be used plain or with onion for sauce, or may be combined in any of the following tempting ways:

Tomato soup, clear or thickened, with or without onion for flavor. Tomato stuffed with meat, rice and green peppers or bread crumbs and onion, and baked in a pan with a little water; scalloped tomato with bread, rice or macaroni; tomato sauce with meat loaf or roast beef; tomato conserve (tomato and apple), chili sauce or catsup.

What your store is to be in a year from now exists in your plans for it today—in the publicity campaigns you're creating now.

SUGAR LOWER, BUT TARIFF ADDS TWO CENTS TO PRICE.

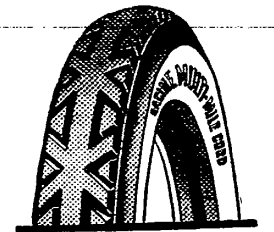

Altho current prices of sugar at retail are about three cents a pound below those quoted in April, May and June, the tariff continues to be felt as a considerable factor in the cost of this staple. The duty of 1.76 cents a pound on Cuban raw sugar, when added to the initial price and pyramided all along the line, still represents two cents or more of the cost to the consumer.

Cuban raw sugar landed in New York and pledged for December delivery was quoted a few days ago at 3.85 cents a pound. If there were no tariff on this sugar the average housewife could buy it for about 5 cents a pound. Knowledge of the charges and profits calculated by the importers and refiners computation disclose the effect of the tariff.

Landed at New York, a pound of Cuban sugar worth 3.85 cents would undergo a sudden appreciation. The Government would collect the tariff of 1.76 cents. This would be added to the previous costs, and the sugar would then be carried at 5.61 cents a pound. Shrinkage—figured at 7 per cent—is the next charge. With this item of shrinkage included the cost of the sugar would become 6 cents a pound, and the addition of further charges and profits would make the retail price about 7 1/2 cents.

Whether the price of Cuban raw sugar rise or fall, the tariff of 1.7648 cents a pound is always part of it.

But that is not all the disadvantage of the tariff. Every pound of sugar produced in the United States and Hawaii—upon which no duty is imposed by law—is boosted 2 cents a pound by the Sugar Trust because the tariff gives that opportunity.
