OF INTEREST TO FARMERS

FIFTEEN HUNDRED CATTLE AT NATIONAL DAIRY SHOW

Fifteen hundred of the finest cattle of the five leading breeds, Holstein, Ayrshire, Jersey and Brown Swiss, have been entered in the National Dairy Show which will be held on the fair grounds at Syracuse, N. Y., October 6-13. County Agent Raymond has been informed by the management.

A significant feature of the entries is that many of them are for only one or two cattle, showing that breeders are sending only their best to the exposition. It is evident that the champions of champions are being sent to the show to fight it out for the championship of America.

Dairy Men at Dairy Show
Visitors to the National Dairy Show at Syracuse, N. Y., October 6-13, will be able to tell at a glance on the map showing relative importance of each state in dairying, prepared as an exhibit. It shows what each state is leader in, what progress it has made and many other interesting facts. It will be only one of the many exhibits of interest to everyone.

Noted Men at Dairy Show
Noted men from many countries will attend the National Dairy exposition at Syracuse, October 5-13, according to County Agent Raymond. He said that forty countries will be represented, on invitation of the late President Harding to sessions of the World's Dairy Congress, which will be held at the same time.

The full program of the congress includes about 200 addresses on all phases of dairying. Among the speakers scheduled is: J. Muenhart, of Belgium, president of the International Dairy federation; H. E. Van Dorman, president of the World's Dairy Congress association; former Governor Frank O. Lowden of Illinois, president of the Holstein Friesian Association of America; Charles Porcher, editor of "La Lait," France, and many others equally prominent.

The names of the speakers indicate the interest sessions of the congress will have for visitors, giving a chance to hear of dairying in every country as well as the opportunity to see a wonderful cross-section of the finest dairying of the United States at the dairy show. Ask the Farm Bureau for official program, transportation arrangements, room reservations, etc.

Aunt Ada's Axioms: Why speak of educating children? Don't we know that our children also educate us?

Brushing the teeth is all right, but "combing" them is still better. At least dentists say that just describes the best motion.

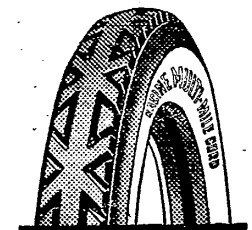

Two cups of salt in a gallon of water will set the color in black stockings. This may have to be done before every washing.

Have debates at your grange? "Principles of Debate" is the title of a free bulletin your state college at Ithaca will send. Ask for F 149.

If guests drop in and the whipped cream for the desert has to be extended, add the white of an egg well-beaten, it will go more than twice as far.

Enameled ware is a form of glass over iron and should be cared for as such. If the glass surface becomes chipped, the exposed iron is liable to rust or be acted upon by acids.

Use warm water in rinsing and bluing clothes. Cold water is less comfortable and doesn't dissolve soap out as well.

STATE'S FARM PRODUCTS BRING BETTER PRICES

New York Farmers Said to be Relatively as Fortunate Now as Men in Other Professions.

State farm products are as high as the general price level, according to a statement issued by the college of agriculture at Ithaca the middle of September. But this occurs, the statement continues, in a year when there is such a drought and such a shortage of labor that many farmers have only a small quantity of products to sell.

The price of milk has been above the general price level since April and the dairy farmer is beginning to get up with some of the big feed bills accumulated during the past three years.

Milk will probably continue high during the next winter and spring. Wages in cities are so much higher than the wages which farmers have been able to pay that the farms have been almost without hired labor for the past summer. A dry unfavorable growing season has resulted in poor pastures and a poor crop of silage corn. Purchased feeds are high. These conditions do not seem to favor a large production of milk this winter.

The price of hogs will probably rise and remain high as long as milk is high-priced.

Eastern Crops Bring More
The principle cash crops in the eastern states should bring good prices this fall. Conditions in the western grain growing states, however, are not as favorable. Wheat brings only a little more than the pre-war price. Oats are equally low and corn is nowhere as high as the general price level.

The potato crop is short and probably is growing worse instead of better. Last year the United States raised 451 million bushels. Farmers are receiving from $1.25 to $2 a bushel for potatoes now. Those who have succeeded in producing a crop will receive a good price. The hay crop in the United States is poor. In the northeastern states it is less than normal, in New York it is fair. New hay is bringing a good price in New York City—from $4 to $7 above the price last year. Farmers should receive much more for the salable hay than they did last year.

The cabbage crop is suffering very much from the prolonged drought and the price for early cabbage is unusually high.

Milk, butter, chickens, wool, lambs, beans, cabbage, potatoes, hay and buckwheat will probably bring good prices this fall and winter.

AAGGIE STILL HOLDS HER LOFTY RECORD
Beats Next Highest By More Than Five Points of Butter Fat, Month's Figures Show.

With a regularity which is becoming monotonous, Aaggie, the seven-year-old grade Holstein owned by S. W. Barber, Scotsburg, N. Y., of the Livingston Dairy Improvement Association, continues to hold her top place, among the associates of the state in butter fat production. The report for May, which has just been summarized at the state college of agriculture at Ithaca, shows that during that month she produced 127.9 pounds of butter from 3279.3 pounds of milk.

Second place for both fat and milk production went to Jessie, the three-year-old Holstein Freisian, owned by F. H. Thomson & Son, Holland Patent, N. Y., of the Oneida Association. Jessie lacks only 5.3 pounds of equaling Aaggie's fat record, but fell considerably below her in milk, the figure being 2607.6 pounds.

Another Oneida cow, but this one owned by William Casbaker of Boonville, ranks third in fat and milk, at 109 and 2535.8 pounds respectively. She is a grade Holstein, four-year-old, and for a name carries only "g."

Fourth place was won by Lydia, a Holstein Freisian, three-year-old, another Thomson cow of the Oneida group. She produced 98.4 pounds of fat and 2093.9 pounds of milk. Orange county came into the running for fifth place with Bella Pontiac, a four-year-old Holstein Freisian owned by the Laurel Stock Farm of Goshen; she produced 98.1 pounds of fat and 2886 pounds of milk.

In commenting on the report, G. W. Tailby, the supervisor of the state association, says that of the 9117 cows, whose records were kept for May in the association, 1672, or 18.3 percent, made the honor roll. Of this number, 87 produced between 60 and 70 pounds, 24 between 70 and 80 pounds, and 14 above 80 pounds of fat for the month.

Farm boys of New York don't have to spend four years at college to get some of the benefits of its teachings. There are the correspondence courses, and the winter short course. Write to the state college at Ithaca and learn about this free instruction.
