WOODROW WILSON.
THE UNANIMOUS SENATE.
DID FORD TALK TOO SOON?
W. J. BRYAN PLEASE.
GREAT IS IOWA.

Woodrow Wilson's body rests in the crypt of the great Episcopal Cathedral at Mt. St. Albans in the northwest section of Washington. Woodrow Wilson's real funeral, the tribute paid to the spirit that is not dead, spreads actually over the whole world, and his was "public funeral" in the real sense of the word.

The moment they are dead, men begin to settle into the place that history reserves for them. Today with radio, telegraph, newspapers, history works rapidly. Its judgments are as erroneous as in the past, probably, but they are more quickly rendered.

It is to be remembered that Mr. Wilson's public services were not war time services only. Before the war was that of he had been at work on public problems. The Federal reserve bank, that carried this country thru the financial strain of war, was part of his work.

The land credits for farmers, freeing the farmer from "respectable" usury, in many directions, had his intense care and devotion. In many directions he worked for the public welfare, efficiently, before the devastating war broke upon the world.

You come to the end of a book, read the word final and know all that the book has to say. It is not so with the life of an active man. His last day comes, yet for him you cannot write final, not after a year, or the next; perhaps not for a thousand years.

Woodrow Wilson, who held in his hand more material power than any individual has ever held on this earth, went back into the ground again. But how long the effects of his active life will be felt on this planet no man can say.

President Coolidge will observe that the Senate is in no doubt as to public opinion on the oil scandal. Some Senators would lose no sleep over such a little thing as selling the navy's oil supply to private individuals, or paying a little cash (not checks) to public officials, if the thing could be put over quietly. But the country is awake, and no one Senator voted against Walsh's resolution calling on the President to cancel the oil leases.

One wise man last week said: "Ford talked just sixty days too soon. If he had kept quiet, this oil affair would have given him the Presidency." Perhaps he's chance have Muscle Shoals. His chances are good for that now. Any plans that official gentlemen may have had for turning that over to insiders on a "Teapot basis" will be kept quiet for a while, at least.

Secretary Denby, of the Navy, says: "I would do it all over again tomorrow."

Of course that does not mean that the Secretary approves all the financial trimmings that went with the deal, the Government bonds handed over, checks that were given and not cashed, the valise full of cash handed to a member of the Cabinet of the United States.

Some of that, undoubtedly, Mr. Denby would change. What is more important, however, than Secretary Denby's opinion, is what Congress and the people will do. They will see that it is not "done all over again."

One hundred and ten little Pomeranians—very small and fluffy pet dogs—were exhibited in New York City last week. Each dog had a nicely dressed lady, nurse or owner, watching the dear little creature, affectionately and faithfully. Those dogs are worth more than $100,000.

Not far away, in an institutional ward, you can find one hundred and ten human babies, three or four nurses taking care of the whole lot. And all the babies put together are hardly worth ten cents; in fact, they are a liability.

Moral: Be born a Pomeranian if you want to go thru life comfortably, in this civilization. Wise citizens of Florida won't hesitate any longer about sending William J. Bryan to represent them as delegate in the Democratic Convention. Judging by news from Washington, Mr. Bryan may have to overcome his reluctance and take the Democratic nomination himself.

First, he will go around like Diogenes for awhile, with a lantern, and then say: "I guess you will have to take me."

Iowa's newspapers started a campaign of advertising, bragging about not fine state. No wonder, for they have things to brag about. The corn fields of Iowa alone produce more wealth than all the gold mines of the United States. The State knows no illiteracy, or, at least, less than any other state in the Union. Its crops are worth a billion a year; the entire population, including all aged men, grandmothers and babies could ride at the same time in Iowa's automobiles.

It's really a marvelous State. California and Florida rejoice, saying: "More power. Get in those cars, drive here and spend it."

Miss Lily Vorhies died Jan. 25 at the home of her sister, Mrs. W. S. Hazzard of Nile, aged 69 years.

Blames Cigarettes for Her Death

W. P. G. Harding, Governor of the Federal Reserve Bank of Boston, who blames the whirl of social life and cigarette smoking as the cause of his daughter's suicide, is supported by Gov. Morgan, of West Virginia, who says: "Cigarette smoking among women is becoming alarming and it is time the Women's Club took active part to stop the practice. I would consider it the greatest thing I could do for my state if I could stop smoking in West Virginia."

Henry Little, a resident for many years of Cuba died at his home in that village, Jan. 26.

Edward P. Lielona, a life long resident of Amity township, died at John Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore, Jan. 26, from a cancerous growth from which he had been a sufferer for over a year. Deceased was 58 years of age. Funeral service was held at his late home and interment made at Belmont.

Mrs. Marcus M. Cramer died Feb. 1st at her home in Whitesville. Mrs. Cramer was formerly Florence A. Olmstead, and was born in Rexville 71 years ago. She had been ill for three months and is survived by her husband, three sons, W. A. Cramer of West Union, Rev. R. E. Cramer of Columbus, Ohio, Henry Cramer, Corning and one daughter, Mrs. Clara McAllister of West Union.

I. L. Coats of Nile died Jan. 31st at the home of his son, Orson Coats of Olean. Deceased was 64 years of age and had been in Olean some time for medical treatment. His wife, a son and daughter survive. The body was taken to Shinglehouse for burial.

Alman Delewater died at his home in Wellsville, Feb. 8. Deceased was born at New Richmond, Pa., in 1842. He was a Civil War Veteran.

L. A. Gottschall of Canasota, Feb. 5th two hours after having suffered a paralytic stroke. Deceased was born in Dansville in 1848 but had been in business in Canasota over fifty years.

Russel Scott of Friendship and a Civil War veteran died Jan. 9th at the soldiers home in Dayton, Ohio, aged 83 years. The body was brought to Friendship last week for interment.

STRICTLY OUT OF IT

Ephriam had put on a clean collar and his best coat and was walking majestically up and down the street.

"Don't you working today, Ephriam?" asked one of his acquaintances.

"No, suh. I'm celebrating my golden wedding, suh."

"You were married fifty years ago today?"

"Yes, suh."

"Well, why isn't your wife helping you to celebrate it?"

"My present wife, suh," replied Ephriam, with dignity, "ain't got nothin' to do with it. She's de-funct."

If the telephone disturbs you, don't pay the bills and your troubles will be over.

The hats in the ring don't enter into the women half so much as the hats in the window.

A dog probably has his place in our present scheme of living, but it is not in the manger.
