WHERE "MISSING" GIRLS GO TO

More than 5,000 persons, mostly women, disappear thru the mysterious gateway of missing persons in Los Angeles, California, every year.

From every part of the United States and on almost every incoming train they arrive. Where most of them go nobody ever knows, but many of them, discouraged, broken hearted and ruined sink forever in the sea of oblivion.

A few chastened and repentant, rise out of their misfortune or degradation and return to the land of their friends and families to take up life anew.

Still others who have thus returned to respectability, fall again and are then lost forever among the denizens of the Underworld.

Mrs. Nellie Schriener, who for fifteen years has been a policeman in Los Angeles, tells of some of the cases that came under her observation in Next Sunday's New York Sunday American.

You may have the Great Sunday American mailed to your address to reach you on Saturday mornings, ten weeks for $1.00. Pin a dollar bill to this notice and send it with your name and address to Circulation Department, New York American, 238 William Street, New York City.
