A RUDE RURAL DIALOGUE

The pitchfork parked within the

now, said, "I may rest from labor

now, and dream of pleasant summer

fields where I was lord of all the yields, when winrows thick on fertile land would rise and move at my command. Hay harvest now is snug

in barn, the ice is thick on brook and tarn. My work well done, I'm sitting pretty, with time to sing this little ditty. Hay fragrance upward to me swells, and tho' it's mixed

with other smells from where my cousin, dung fork dwells, this is the life, there's no use talking, for any tool that lives by forking." The dung fork answered, "Hey there,

brother, let's speak right plain to one another. I hear your brags, but where'd you be if it were not for such as me. The dude may hold his dainty nose, but from my strength

the corn crop grows, 'the sweetest

fruit, the fairest rose; and green

grass grows up all around where'er

my freight is spread abroad. Come join with me, a perfect match; for what I start you later catch. Since cattle first were pent in byres, we've

served mankind, both sons and aires.

In spite of loaders and of tedders,

in spite of these new-fangled spreaders, you still in summer fields shall play and hist the heavy heaps of

hay; and I within the farmer's grip

will sling my stuff with mighty flip."

—BOB ADAMS

LOOK WHOSE HERE,
"PLAIN BILL" AGAIN

Has Some Pertinent Things
To Say About Bridge
and Park.

Fifteen thousand dollars extra. That's all folks, for this time. Just a mere trifle. Someone has been talking too much. Probably told it outside, that Andover wasn't quite bankrupt yet, and so they want another fifteen thousand.

It's for a bridge this time. If it wasn't for a bridge it would be for something else, so what's the difference?

A beautiful bridge down at Stearn's Crossing would benefit this town a lot wouldn't it? It isn't that the old bridge is dangerous or unfit or anything of that kind, its to build a new one so they can make it wider and change the roadway so they can run over it at sixty miles an hour.

It's something terrible as it is at present, why the poor motorist has to slow down to about thirty miles. Isn't that an outrage? How much would this bridge benefit you, Mr. and Mrs. Average Taxpayer? Not one red cent. Well, you are the ones that will have to pay for it.

I am not trying to tell you how to vote, I am just reminding you that next Wednesday afternoon you stay at home and the proposition should carry. Why don't you kick about your taxes.

I think it would be of more benefit to the town to fix up our city park and that could be done with practically no expense. There, I didn't mean to say anything about the old grove, for I will own up I am discouraged, also I am worried, for I have got to die some time and at my age it won't be long and I know just how it will turn out after I am dead. I'll climb up the Golden Stairs and knock and St. Peter will open the door and say, "Well, well, look where here, come on in Bill." Then he will hesitate a little and say, "you are from Scio ain't you." Of course I'll have to own up I am from Andover and St. Peter will say, "Andover! That's that sloppy place where they haven't enough civic pride to replant the trees destroyed in their city park. No, Bill, you will feel more at home down at the other place, and he will slam the door. Now won't that be a hellava note. Sometime some man, or a man and his wife with a little influence, combined with a little get-up-and-get, will take enough interest in this to start something, and that's all it needs, just some one to start it.

When that time comes, I'll vote for that man and his wife for any office they want. So will Mrs. Bill. Yes, and so will Little Bill, vote for them. Of course, he is only seven years old now but he will probably be old enough to vote for them twice before anything is done about the old grove.

Yours for plain talk,

PLAIN BILL

MRS. AGNES FULLER

Mrs. Agnes Fuller, wife of Donald Fuller of Washington, D. C., died at a sanitarium in Rochester, Saturday morning, after an illness of about a year. The body was brought to the home of J. O. Fuller, of Andover, Sunday.

Mrs. Fuller is survived by her husband and a nine-months-old daughter.

Funeral services were held at Scio Wednesday morning and the interment was made there.

Mrs. Fuller was a sister of Mrs. L. O. Fuller of this place. She passed several months last summer in Andover, living in the Grandall home on Dyke street.

RAY ROGERS INJURED

Ray Rogers of Whitesville, brother of Hayden Rogers of this village, was painfully injured Monday morning while sawing out some levels at his mill in Fulmer Valley. In some manner the level he was sawing, caught in the saw and the end of the heavy wood struck him a terrible blow in the face. He was taken to the Wellsville hospital where it is reported he is gaining as rapidly as possible.

My faith is all a doubtful thing,
Wove on a doubtful loom—
Until there comes, each showery
spring,
A cherry-tree in bloom;
And Christ who died upon a tree
That death had stricken bare,
Comes beautifully back to me,
In blossoms, everywhere.

U. S. RECRUITING STATION

Harry Bohum, from the recruiting station at Syracuse, was in Andover Wednesday, on business. He told the news that the Hornell Station was enlisting men for an branch of U. S. Service and the man enlisting could choose for himself the branch of service and the place where he would be located.

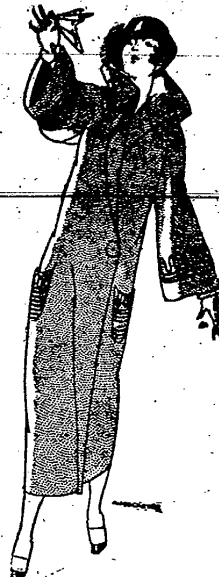

RECORD YOUR DISCHARGE

Every ex-service man or woman who expects to receive a part of the state bonus is urged to have his discharge recorded at the county clerk's office and a certified copy of the same made. Each application blank for the same bonus must be accompanied by a certified copy of the discharge. Get your discharges recorded at once and avoid the rush later. The local post expects to make arrangements to fill out the application blanks and forward the same to Albany. These blanks will probably be ready by April first.
