LET LION ROAR VIA RADIO.
AND NOW FIRPO.
THE LAST SILVER THREAD.
THREE KINDS OF WEALTH.
LET THEM DANCE.

Here is a new radio idea. British broadcasters will install a microphone and very small transmitter in some wild wood, frequented by nightingales, and the wonderful bird "not born for death" will be heard all over England.

Suggestion for American broadcasters. Instead of a bed-time story let youngsters hear the lion roaring, elephant trumpeting, hyena laughing and baboon yelling from the zoo. It could be arranged by adjusting the feeding hours. Every boy would like it, especially the lion's roar.

"I'll fight no more," says Firpo, giant of the Pampas, "after this one fight with Reich."
The Argentine giant means to live his own life and leave the atmosphere of the prize ring, which does not please him. He even refuses the possibility of making half a million by one more fight in the United States.

Firpo has met "a worse knockout than Dempsey's." A lady from Paris, who acts, wants Firpo to go to France.
Who was it betrayed the Capital?
—A woman!
Who lost Mark Antony the world?
—A woman!
Who was the cause of a long ten-year's war, and laid at last old Troy in ashes?—A woman!
And now it's Firpo's turn.

Just fifty years ago, young Hart Pease Danks and his wife lived happily. He even wrote a song to tell her that his affection would last forever. "Silver Threads Among the Gold" was the title of that song. You remember it, well, if you're fifty. It's a pretty song. Many have butchered it. It made money and when prosperity came in one hour, harmony flew out of the other. Danks and his wife separated. His son and daughter quarreled about royalties on the song.

In 1903, an old man was found dead, kneeling beside his bed in a Philadelphia lodging house. On an old copy of "Silver Threads" he had written this: "It's hard to grow old alone." That was Danks. Last Friday his wife was buried. She had died at eighty-two, in a Brooklyn rooming house, where she lived alone.

Construct your own moral, and be sure to include this: "It's better to put a good house and lot in your wife's name, or build up for her a respectable bank account, that you can't touch, than to sing to her: "Yes, my darling, you will be always young and fair to me."

Round the world fliers, encountering heavy weather, were temporarily checked, and geese that never learn say "the flying machine will never be practical."

There are three kinds of wealth only—the EARTH on which you stand, TIME, and man's INTELLIGENCE. How wealth increases and time is actually increased or saved is shown by research of the National Association of Farm Equipment Manufacturers. Thanks to machinery, saving labor, American farmers saved last year 1,382,539,204 days of actual work.

Figured at $3 a day that would be a gain to the farmers of four billions of dollars. Farmers will wonder where the money is. The fact, unfortunately, is that the saving of time, money and cost due to perfecting of machinery, goes to middlemen—not much of it to those that do the actual work.

You would say that big muscles on arms and back are more valuable to earners than deep convolutions in the brain, as you read of offers made to Mr. Jack Dempsey. He has a moving picture offer of a million, and two offers running from half a million to a million for a few minutes of fighting.

"Muscle is king," you say, but then you remember that John D. Rockefeller Jr., leaning over for his 21 foot putt, might have one little thought that would earn him fifty millions, and he wouldn't have to be photographed, or fight to get it.

superior, forbids dancing in the church service. Nevertheless, Dr. Guthrie will have the dancing.

How would it be, since human beings are different, and their conceptions of what pleases Divine Power even more different, to let those lance that want to dance, those pray that want to pray, and those above know what they all mean and can sort out the good intentions.

GENUINE buying opportunities are all that interest ad-readers. Offers interest people who—through reading much advertising—KNOW, must be very real price concessions, and must be made on very real values.

Why do women like Oakland's automatic spark control so well?

Because there is no spark lever for them to operate, and none is needed.
