Hangman Retires—Lincoln's Poem—Strong Women—Nature's Wonders

John Ellis, England's hangman, the world. She can sustain the weight of a two-ton elephant, and allow men on horseback to ride over a bridge of which the weight rests upon her.

In old days, such a lady would have been courted by many. She might have been that Amazon queen, who told Alexander the Great that she would like to be the mother of his children, a message followed by an interesting meeting—Alexander having sent the only reply that a polite man could send—being a bachelor at the time.

What became of the result of that meeting? Who knows but that this powerful Italian woman may be the descendant of Alexander the Great?

Now, however, a child moving an electric switch could raise a thousand times the weight of that two-ton elephant. Men, saucy doesn't count any more. But strong women, not able to lift elephants, but with good strong bodies free from nicotine, alcohol, late hours and general foolishness, are as important as ever they were.

Upon them depends the brain of the next generation and future civilization.

Nature is "wonderful." There are birds like animals, animals like birds. The strangeness of creation is inexhaustible. The University of Pennsylvania sends an expedition to catch a hoazin, bird that breaks stones with its beak, swims like a duck, flies like a bat. The same expedition will look also for a "Ballbird." Instead of singing it tinkles like a bell.

There are snakes that swallow their young to protect them, then let them out again. There is a lady toad that lays her eggs on the back of her husband, who hops around cheerfully in the sunlight, hatching the load. Nature really is wonderful.

What we actually SEE we FEEL. One State in March reports 124 kills by automobiles. Everybody says "That is TERRIBLE, we must do something about it."

In a year 200,000 mothers die in childbirth, because they are neglected. Nobody gets much excited about that.

Cancer and tuberculosis kill their victims and shows them.

Mr. Albee, who collects strange things and shows them.

Governor Al Smith, of N. Y., is now a strong possibility for the Democratic nomination as a result of the sensational vote piled up for him in the Wisconsin preference primary. Smith has the solid backing of "Boss" Murphy's Tammy Hall organization which votes N. Y. state's 91 delegates in the Democratic National Convention.

A high stool in the kitchen is a back-saver; and so is a low chair with a comfortable back.

Careless piling of potatoes or fruits often wastes as much as 20 per cent. of their food material.

"Answerable Courages"

To the doubters who feared the Mayflower's adventurous voyage and the terrors of the New World wilderness, stout William Bradford records how it was answered:

"That all great and honorable actions are accompanied by great difficulties and must be both entered and overcome with answerable courages."

Only 17 years ago the Niagara, Lockport & Ontario Power Company undertook to transmit Niagara power to Syracuse. On all sides doubtless rose up to insist that such long-distance transmission of electric power was visionary and impractical. Financial support was obtained with the utmost difficulty. Failure was freely predicted.

Syracuse today uses twenty-five times as much electric power as it did in 1907. It all comes from Niagara Falls. It is all transmitted by the Niagara, Lockport & Ontario Power Company.

The Niagara Falls Power Company sells electricity at the lowest average price received by any generating system on the North American Continent.
