Former Presidential Candidate Speaks in Andover

Hon. Oliver Stewart, president of the Flying Squadron, Foundation, Inc., spoke to a small audience, at the Baptist church Wednesday afternoon, on the prohibition question and solicited support of the movement and subscriptions to his weekly newspaper, the National Engineer.

The speaker is an old prohibition party was horse. About 25 years ago he was the prohibition party nomination for the Presidency. He was perfectly fair in his presentation of the question, politically and is working for dry planks in the Republican and Democratic platforms. He told his experience at Cleveland and tried to make out that the plank the Republicans finally put in was a dry plank, when really it was only a general law enforcement plank. He will attend the Democratic Convention in New York next week, to aid Hon. William Jennings Bryan, save the Democrats making the blunder of their lives by putting in a wet plank.

He told his hearers that the Flying Squadron was dedicated to the course of putting the wet out of commission and said that while he did not know who the Democrats would nominate next week he agreed with Bryan that it would not be either Al Smith or Underwood.

Among other interesting facts Mr. Stewart told the inside story about the celebrated Grossman case, now before the Supreme Court. But his main drive seemed to be subscriptions to his newspaper.

"Pickup" Hits Speedster

The local "pickup" hit and practically destroyed the speedster used by Stephen Scott of Wellsville, who is in charge of the electric signal equipment on the section of the Erie about 10 o'clock Friday morning at Andover pond.

Mr. Scott had some work to do, a little east of Andover and had left Wellsville, with his assistant on his speedster with a clear block for Andover. He failed to stop here to ascertain whether or not the way was clear beyond but kept right on going. As he rounded the curve at Andover pond he found the "pickup" bearing down on him at a lively speed. There wasn't time to stop either the freight train or the speedster, so Scott and his assistant jumped from the machine.

The train smashed into the speedster, breaking it up and throwing the pieces into the pond. Scott and his assistant were uninjured.

Had You Thought of This?

Has it ever occurred to you that when you give the editor an item of news you are conferring a favor not only upon him, but upon an old friend who, living far away from the old town is a subscriber to The News? That old friend of yours reads every line in the paper, every week in the hope of finding some item about you or some of the others whom he knew and loved. Very often you know of things which would interest these former residents. You have not time to write a letter to each of them. You could by telephone or note, tell the editor of the item and the news would go forth to gladden the hearts of the friends.
